VOL. XXIV, No. 27

ITHACA, N. Y., APRIL 13, 1922

PRICE 12 CENTS

THE annual Easter exodus began at 1 p. m. on April 5, and between the first stroke of the chimes and midnight, Ithaca managed to disgorge nearly five thousand students. Every available street car and taxi was impressed into service and in the early afternoon State Street was as choked with traffic as on circus day. The railroads put on an adequate number of special trains, one of which established a new record of five hours forty-one minutes for the trip to New York.

A WIRELESS TELEPHONE equipment was a feature of one of the special trains furnished for vacation-bound students. Conversations were conducted between passengers on the moving train and stations within a radius of twenty miles. The Ithaca Journal-News established its claim to being the first newspaper to "receive the spoken word from a moving train and to answer back to the train by radio." The receiving apparatus with its amplifier enabled indulgence in dancing by music coming from the broadcasting stations, and one of the better known student orchestras en route to fill an engagement in New York churned up the New Jersey air with waves of jazz.

COACH JOHN HOYLE sent three varsity and two freshman crews over the two-mile course for their first lake workout of the season on April 5. Vacation for the crew men consisted of two hard training periods every day.

LAYMEN'S noonday meetings have been held daily during the past week, at the Lyceum Theatre, under the auspices of the United Christian Campaign. Among the prominent local men who have presided over or addressed these meetings are William H. Morrison '90, Robert H. Tremen '78, and Judge Willard M. Kent '98.

THE LOCAL Rotary Club is strongly Cornellian in its administration. Nominations, probably unopposed, for the next election include Romeyn Berry '04, graduate manager of athletics, as president; and Ross W. Kellogg '12, as vice-president. Dr. Albert H. Sharpe, former football coach at Cornell, is nominated as sergeant-at-arms.

PROFESSOR H. A. LORENTZ, of the University of Leyden, is to lecture on April 14 and 15 on "The Constitution of Matter" and "The Theory of the Zeemann Effect."

THE SAGE CHAPEL Preacher for April 16 will be the Rev. Dr. Bernard Iddings Bell, president of St. Stephen's College, Annandale-on-Hudson, N. Y.

BULLETINS from the College of Agriculture are henceforth to be distributed only upon request, instead of on mailing lists as has been the custom. The lists are to be used for the distribution of lists of publications available, from which lists titles are to be selected by the recipient. As in the past, publications of the College are free.

A CAFETERIA for medical students in New York was opened in the Y. M. C. A. Building, 410 East 26th Street, on March 31. This replaces the one recently destroyed by fire and will serve until the proposed Students' Club is built. A building fund is now being raised at the College for a dormitory or clubhouse.

IN ONE of Cornell's research laboratories belts of various types are tested to determine their relative value to given industries and to develop improvements in them. The work is done with the cooperation of the Leather Belting Exchange, a national organization of manufacturers of leather belting.

LEWELLYN TURNER '23, of Schoharie, was married on April 5 to Miss Bertha Lauretta Rockwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Rockwell of Kennedy's Corners. Mrs. Turner is a librarian at Bailey Hall.

EDWARD JOHNSON '22, of San Francisco, was married on April 5, at Sayre, Pennsylvania, to Miss Florence Pugsley of Ithaca. Johnson is the local representative of the H. C. Dickerman Company, of Lincoln, Nebraska.

ELECTIONS to the Sun board for the year 1922-3 are as follows: editor-in-chief, Otis P. Williams '23, of Norwalk, Ohio; business manager, Howard M. Nazor '23, of Ashtabula, Ohio; managing editor, Robert E. Lee '23, of Mount Vernon; editorial director, Ernest D. Leet '23, of Jamestown; associate editors, Jerome W. Thompson '24, of Littleton, New Hampshire, Joseph L. Block '24, of Chicago, Harvey S. Gerry '24, of Washington, D. C., Charles L. Felske '24, of Kokomo, Indiana, Alexander N. Slocum, Jr., '25, of Los Angeles, California; assistant business manager, John M. Berry '24, of Lexington, Kentucky; associate manager, John H. King '24, of East Cleveland, Ohio. The new position of editorial director has been created to assist the editor-in-chief in the conduct of the editorial column, and ranks equally with the post of managing editor.

A MOCK MARRIAGE of the presidents of the women's freshman and junior classes was held in Barnes Hall on March 24.

Anne Seymour '25 of New York took the part of Miss Ima Gay Frosh, while the groom was Dorothy Trebing '23 of New York. This has come to be a traditional ceremony signifying the union of interests of the two classes.

THE ANNUAL BANQUET of the undergraduates of Sibley College was held on March 30 in the main dining room of Prudence Riskey Hall. Professor Martin W. Sampson acted as toastmaster. Dr. Farrand, who appeared at the banquet for a few moments in spite of his illness, expressed in a short talk his deep appreciation of the part which engineers have played in the development of the good name of the University. Dean Dexter S. Kimball, in his speech, estimated that fully ninety per cent of the administrative functions of the world's industry are performed by engineers. Calvin Rice, secretary of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, summed up the benefits to be derived by the student engineer from that Society. The last address of the evening was given by Dr. S. W. Stratton, director of the Federal Bureau of Standards, in which he described and illustrated by lantern slides, the colossal undertakings of the Bureau in standardizing units of measurement.

VASA PRIHODA, Bohemian violinist, made his third appearance before an Ithaca audience on April 3 in Bailey Hall, in the post-season series of concerts arranged by the Department of Music. His program included Beethoven's "Kreutzer Sonata" and the "Turkish March"; the "Witches' Dance" of Paganini; Sarasate's "Spanish Dance"; and numbers from Mendelssohn and Dvorak. His wisdom in presenting more serious compositions than he had heretofore attempted in Ithaca, was amply attested by the enthusiasm of the acclaim accorded him.

THE SPECIAL ELECTION of a Representative from this district, with Lewis Henry '09 and Judge Frank Irvine '80 as Republican and Democratic candidates respectively, is attracting widespread attention in the press. Judge Irvine's antagonism to the Volstead Act appears to be the chief issue in the campaign, from the political point of view, at any rate; and the significance of this "opening gun" in New York State politics is not likely to be underestimated by the leaders.

HENRY BOOL, an Ithaca merchant well-known to Cornellians of a generation ago, died at his home in Somerset, England, on March 27, according to information received by his family here. He had been living in England for about twenty years.

C. U. C. A. to Raise $12,000

Ask Alumni for $7,000 for Expenses and $5,000 Endowment by June 1—
Activities are Numerous

The Cornell University Christian Association, which, since its reorganization after the war, has become one of the leading undergraduate activities on the Campus, has started a campaign to raise $12,000 from Cornell alumni by June 1. The Cornellian Council has given its approval of this effort to raise funds.

The C. U. C. A., with the Cornell Coffee House as one of its most important adjuncts, combines a student club and an organization that serves as a clearing house for denominational religious activities on the Campus. Both of these general divisions include a number of lines of work, all of which are being forwarded by the undergraduate cabinet and council members and coached by a trained member of the staff of the Association.

Barnes Hall, the home of the C. U. C. A., is headquarters for more than fifty student organizations. Its auditorium, meeting rooms, and lounge rooms are open without restriction to all members of the University community. The building is used by more than three thousand persons a week. The Coffee House, which is conducted on a non-profit basis, has four dining rooms, the total business from which amounts to two thousand orders a week, making a weekly income of approximately $600. The first floor of Barnes Hall, which constitutes the Coffee House, has become a social meeting place for men of all types. The C. U. C. A. has built up a "union spirit" in the Coffee House with the hope that eventually a Cornell Union may be built which will adequately supply the need which the enthusiastic use of the Coffee House has demonstrated.

The Association conducts the official University employment bureau. During the past year students have been given employment in seven hundred regular positions and odd jobs. It is estimated that the work thus obtained is worth approximately $75,000 to self-supporting students. Personal relations are maintained so far as possible with working students.

One of the activities of the C. U. C. A. during the present college year is the weekly Forum, held on Sunday afternoons, following services in Sage Chapel. At this Forum speakers of national and international prominence have talked before audiences which have at times taxed the capacity of the auditorium. Such meetings are always opened for general discussion following the principal talk, and in this way many students find their only opportunity for expression outside of classes.

The religious work at Barnes Hall is entirely undenominational. The staff cooperates to the fullest extent with the churches and religious organizations of Ithaca. Richard H. Edwards, Yale '01, the general secretary, has built up a staff of eight trained specialists who act as coaches of the various phases of the work of the Association. The fact that five of these men also maintain special pastoral relations with students of their particular denominations makes them available for this non-denominational work without increasing the financial burden of the C. U. C. A.

Of the $12,000 that is being sought in the present campaign, $7,000 is needed for current expenses for this year. In order that the finances of the C. U. C. A. may be placed on a sound basis, the board of directors is anxious to create an endowment fund, which will eventually relieve Cornell alumni from direct financial support. Five thousand dollars is being sought this year as the first increment of this endowment. There are no charges for any of the services of the C. U. C. A., principally because those who are the least able to pay are the most benefited.

The Association is entirely dependent upon voluntary contributions. Undergraduates raise sufficient each year to pay for the office expenses, stenographers' salaries, janitors' services, and the expenses of the work conducted at Barnes Hall. Money for executive salaries, traveling expenses, and upkeep of the building is being sought from alumni.

The executive committee of the Cornellian Council has approved the campaign in the following terms:

"The Committee at its meeting in Ithaca on March 7, expressed its hearty sympathy with the work of the Christian Association and a realization of its value to the University and to the undergraduates. The Committee expressed its belief that there are many alumni of Cornell who would be glad to contribute financially to the particular work which it carries on and was unanimously of the opinion that the Christian Association should not be precluded from appealing to the alumni.

"In taking this action the Executive Committee expressed itself further as believing that it would not be wise for the Cornellian Council to recommend to the Trustees that an appropriation from the Alumni Fund for the work of the Christian Association be made and also that it would not be wise to commit the Cornellian Council, either actually or by implication, to a regular annual appropriation from the Funds in any stated amount for this purpose.

"While the Cornellian Council has endeavored to guarantee to each contributor to the Alumni Fund, immunity from any further appeals for contributions for university purposes, this cannot be practically fulfilled in its entirety. When exceptional circumstances arise exceptions to the rule must be made. Subscribers to the Alumni Fund were approached during the Semi-Centennial Endowment Campaign because the University was facing a real crisis and an extraordinary effort was necessary to carry it past the critical point. Again in the case of the work of the Cornell University Christian Association, the Cornellian Council feels that an exception must be made, inasmuch as the unallocated contributions to the Alumni Fund are primarily intended by their donors for use by the University for general University purposes, and inasmuch as whatever balance is available for appropriation by the Board of Trustees after definite commitments have been paid, will be urgently needed to help make up the deficit in the University's operating expenses and in the budget covering salaries of the instructing staff. The Cornellian Council hopes that all alumni interested in the work of the Christian Association will respond generously to this appeal."

BOLDT'S FAMILY PLEASED

Since the recent announcement that the Board of Trustees have, on the recommendation of the Cornellian Council, decided to name the new Alumni Fund dormitory "Boldt Hall" in memory of the late George C. Boldt, both George C. Boldt, Jr. '05, and his sister, Mrs. Alfred Graham Miles, have expressed hearty appreciation of this action by the University.

In a telegram to the secretary of the Cornellian Council, Mrs. Miles stated that she was very happy and proud to know that this building is to be named in memory of her father.

George C. Boldt, Jr., upon reading the announcement in the ALUMNI NEWS, wrote as follows to Walter P. Cooke '91, president of the Cornellian Council:

"I see by the last issue of the ALUMNI NEWS that your Council has decided to name the new dormitory Boldt Hall. To say that this pleases me very much is putting it very mildly, indeed. It is especially pleasing to me inasmuch as, if there was any one point which my father always brought to the front in connection with Cornell University, it was the fact that he firmly believed that Cornell belonged principally to her alumni and his absolute, never failing confidence in that body to keep Cornell in her proper place in this great nation of ours and the entire educational world.

"The fact that this specific dormitory is to be paid for with the money given to the University by her alumni I consider an especially wonderful tribute to his memory and I take this means of thanking you and, through you, the members of your Board for having done so."

PHILADELPHIA ELECTS OFFICERS

The annual meeting of the Cornell Club of Philadelphia was held at the club house on April 5. After a dinner and a business meeting which was well attended, the club was entertained by a talk from Clement E. Chase '10, who is the principal assistant engineer of the Philadelphia-Camden Bridge Commission, on the bridge which, when finished, will be the longest suspension span in the world.

The following officers and directors were elected for the year: president, Howard H. Ingersoll '15; vice-president, Howard V. Whitney '09; secretary, Paul C. Rebman '18; treasurer, George F. Fenno '06; athletic representative, William H. Fritz, Jr., '14. Directors: Otto V. Kruse '09, Benjamin O. Friek '02, Howard M. Rogers '07, Hobart C. Young '10, Lincoln A. Passmore '17, Godfrey R. Rebman, Jr., '19.

Complete Program for Chicago Convention is Announced

Serious Discussions of University Questions Balance Entertainment Features at Drake Hotel April 21 to 23—Railroads Reduce Rates

THE discussion of important problems facing Cornell and other educational institutions, under the leadership of two college presidents, an address by one of America's foremost business men, informal discussion of Cornell questions, and a liberal sprinkling of entertainment will be the order of business at the second annual Cornell convention, held by the Associate Alumni in Chicago on Friday and Saturday, April 21, 22 and 23.

Late reports to the effect that a large number of Cornellians will attend the convention to profit from the general discussions and to take part in the one annual business meeting of all Cornell alumni, indicate that the Chicago convention will not be a "delegates' convention." Every Cornellian who is present at the business sessions will have an opportunity to enter into the discussions and will have a vote on all matters that come up for alumni action.

The preparation of an imposing order of formal business as the main attraction at the convention has not prevented the committees from taking ample care of the lighter side of the affair. Luncheons, the annual banquet, a ball game, and the mysterious "Round-Up" will give Cornell alumni an opportunity to get together in a social way each day of the convention. President Livingston Farrand and John W. O'Leary '99, of Chicago, will be the speakers at the annual banquet to be held in the Drake Hotel main dining room on Saturday evening. The banquet guests will be entertained as well by a big program of stunts. The luncheon hours on Friday and Saturday will be devoted to group gatherings, that on Friday along club and fraternity lines, and that on Saturday by classes.

The business of the convention will be accomplished in three main sessions. On Friday morning, following the appointment of committees and the consideration of old business, President Harry P. Judson of the University of Chicago will address the convention on the subject: "Are Increases in Tuition Expedient?" This talk will be followed by general discussion of the subject and the relation of increased tuition to increased salaries for members of the teaching profession. This subject was presented for discussion by the Cornell University Association of Chicago.

The second address of general alumni interest will be given on Saturday morning by President David Kinley, of the University of Illinois, on the question: "Should Each University Arbitrarily Restrict Its Student Enrollment? If So, How can This Best be Done?" On Friday afternoon Harry A. Wheeler, former president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, will address the convention on the subject: "What the Business World Expects from the Young College Graduate."

The Cornell parade to the baseball park and the baseball game between Chicago and Cincinnati on Saturday afternoon, together with informal sight seeing, visiting, and entertainment on Sunday will be additional social features which will add much to the enjoyment of Cornellians who attend the convention.

Special provisions have been made whereby a twenty-five per cent reduction in the round trip fare can be had if two hundred and fifty tickets are validated at the transportation booth at the Drake Hotel, the Convention headquarters. This is a more favorable concession by the railroads than had formerly been made, when three hundred and fifty certificates were required to enable delegates to obtain the reduction of half the return fare.

In order to secure accommodations at the Drake Hotel and to take advantage of the reduced rates, alumni intending to attend the convention should communicate with B. Botsford Young '18, Boulevard Bridge Bank, Chicago.

The detailed program follows:

Friday, April 21, 1922

9 a. m.—Registration, Drake Hotel Lobby

10 a. m.—Roll Call—Appointment of Committees—Old Business

Address: Are Increases in Tuition Expedient? by President Harry Pratt Judson, of the University of Chicago, followed by open discussion of the question.

Discussion of two questions proposed by the Directors of the Associate Alumni: 1. In what manner should Cornell conventions be perpetuated, for what purpose, how, when, and where? 2. In addition to the reunions in June shall we inaugurate a big general homecoming jubilee week-end reunion to be held in Ithaca at the time of a major football game every fall, to be free from business discussions or organized meetings, solely for the pleasure of the party and called irrespectively of classes, primarily for reunions of clubs and fraternities, editorial boards, and athletic teams?

12.30 p. m.—Luncheon, Drake Hotel.

Informal reunions by clubs, fraternities, and other alumni groups.

2 p. m.—Second Business Session, Drake Hotel Grill Room.

Discussion of three questions proposed by the Directors of the Associate Alumni: 1. Should there be effected a reorganization of Cornell alumni organizations whereby all are responsible to a single body? 2. How shall interest in Alumni Trustee elections be stimulated, both to attract a greater number of candidates and a greater vote? 3. In our definition of the words "alumnus" and "alumna" do we make a mistake in considering as full-fledged Cornellians all who have ever attended the University, even though that attendance may have been no longer than a day, or a week, or a month? Should we admit only those who have been at the University long enough to have an academic record, i. e., a term, at least?

THE SCENE OF THE ASSOCIATE ALUMNI CONVENTION

This view shows the section of Chicago where the convention will be held. The convention headquarters, the Drake Hotel, is in the upper right hand corner of the picture, near the shore of the lake. The boulevard running through the center of the picture is the "Michigan Boulevard Link" which was recently forced through an old business section by various methods of moving, tearing down, and cutting apart existing buildings. The picture was taken from a point near the site of old Fort Dearborn. The white building in the center is the Wrigley Building, built from the profits of a well known article of commerce and representing kinetic energy in inconceivable quantities expended in its chewing.

Address: What the Business World Expects of the Young College Graduate, by Harry A. Wheeler, ex-president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Open discussion of questions to be brought before the Convention by delegates.

- 7 p. m.—“Round-Up” (for men), North Side Turner Hall, 820 N. Clark Street, 5 blocks from the Drake Hotel. Procession forms in front of hotel at 6.30. Dinner and a lively evening’s entertainment and smoker, as in the good old days at the Dutch Kitchen. (Special entertainment for visiting alumnae has been provided for Friday evening by the local committee of Chicago Alumnae.)

Saturday, April 22, 1922

- 9.30 a. m.—Third Business Session, Drake Hotel Grill Room.
New Business.
Address: Should Each University Arbitrarily Restrict Its Student Enrollment? If So, How can This Best be Done? by President David Kinley, of the University of Illinois.
Open discussion of the question.
Reports of committees.
Voting on resolutions.
Adjournment of Business Sessions.
- 12.30 p. m.—Luncheon, Drake Hotel
Informal reunions by classes.
- 1.30 p. m.—Automobile parade to baseball park assembles in front of Drake Hotel.
- 2 p. m.—Baseball game, Chicago Cubs vs. Cincinnati Reds, Cubs Park.
Return to Drake Hotel by Cornell Automobiles.
- 7 p. m.—Grand Banquet of the Convention, Drake Hotel, Main Dining Room. Toastmaster, Morris R. Ebersole '99-'00 G.
Speakers: Dr. Livingston Farrand, John W. O'Leary '99; and a big program of stunts.

Sunday, April 23, 1922

Informal sight-seeing, visiting, and entertainment throughout the day.

LITERARY REVIEW

The European Emigrant

Why Europe Leaves Home: A True Account of the Reasons Which Cause Central Europeans to Overrun America; Which Lead Russians to Rush to Constantinople and Other Fascinating and Unpleasant Places; Which Coax Greek Royalty and Commoners into Strange Byways and Hedges; and Which Induce Englishmen and Scotchmen to Go Out at Night. By Kenneth L. Roberts '08. With Illustrations from Photographs. Indianapolis. The Bobbs-Merrill Company. 1922. 8vo, pp. viii, 356. Price, $3, net.

We seem to be going back to the one-page title; we have quoted the whole of this entertaining title because it truthfully describes the book. Deponent further states that he has based these chapters on “accurate and de-propagandized information gathered in England, Scotland, France, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Danzig, Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, Italy, Turkey and Greece in the years 1920 and 1921.” Already these chapters have had wide circulation in the pages of The Saturday Evening Post; and the book will now be a welcome companion to “Europe’s Morning After,” which we noticed in these columns on June 9 last.

Everybody knows Roberts’s racy, pungent style. There are elements of it which we do not like, and which we would urge our author to cast upon the junk-heap.

“Let us do some supposing. . . . Let us now step on the accelerators of our supposers, so to speak.” “Early in the ninth century, he claimed, gradually freeing the kinks from his claimer and making it work with more fluency,” etc. This type of jocular allusion has become a habit with Roberts, and we believe to his detriment. But this is a trifle in comparison with the positive merits of a style which is the product of a vivid imagination, an effective if generous use of vigorous slang, a knack of making the point stand out, and a general facility of expression which is enviable though perhaps dangerous.

The first four chapters are concerned with the problem of American immigration, the reasons which bring it about, the dangers of too many immigrants, and the proper remedies for the situation. The author strongly emphasizes this statement: “The tremendous movement of people from Europe to America which has been in progress for the last twenty years, and the even more tremendous one which is in progress unless immigration is restricted with an iron hand, is purely, simply and solely an economic movement. It is a movement which must not be misrepresented by sentimentalists and near-Americans as being a movement of oppressed people in search of religious or any other freedom. . . . It is a movement to a better job.” He pleads for an entire and sweeping revision of our immigration policy and an intelligent restriction of all immigration to that which is needed by this country for definite purposes. The wealth of material and illustration which he submits in behalf of this contention is more than convincing. A copy of this book ought to be laid on the desk of every Congressman. It is more entertaining even than The Congressional Record, which has lately attained unexpected heights in that regard.

The next three chapters describe conditions in Russia and Greece which have resulted from the Bolshevik régime and from the return of Constantine to the Greek throne. The account of his interview with Constantine is amusing and throws a good deal of light not only on the character of the king himself but also on that of the people who voted for or allowed him to come back. The consolation for the situation is, in Roberts’s own words: “Sometimes they come back. . . . but not for long.”

Finally two chapters on drinking conditions in England and Scotland. The amount of falsehood which the wets have spread over Britain is not less startling and disconcerting than the avidity with which it has been “lapped up,” to use a favorite expression of our author. He makes it clear that the fight against booze in Britain has only just begun, but that enlightened Britons realize the terrible handicap under which the excessive use of liquor places their countries in the economic contests of the world.

A good book; it deserves wide reading.

Books and Magazine Articles

Clarence Beebe '73 writes interestingly in The Tribune for January 7 “On The Tribune in 1873,” on which he worked as a reporter. He recalls reporting Dr. John Hall’s sermon and asking him for his manuscript, whereupon Dr. Hall obligingly handed it to him in shorthand, undecipherable by any one but himself. “I had met Horace Greeley in preceding years and seen him on the street, with his trousers tucked in high boots, and I was beholden to him for his advice in 1869 to go to Cornell as the coming institution for the education of ambitious young men.” The $12 or $15 a week which Mr. Beebe received for his work was the first money he earned after leaving Cornell in June, 1873.

A portrait of President M. Carey Thomas '77, of Bryn Mawr, is included in The Educational Review for February.

In The Yale Review for April Professor Joseph Q. Adams, Ph.D. '06, reviews Professor George C. D. Odell’s “Shakespeare from Betterton to Irving.”

Professor William L. Westermann writes in The Political Science Quarterly for March “On the Sources and Methods of Research in Economic History.” In the same number Professor Preserved Smith’s “The Age of the Reformation” is reviewed by Professor Austin P. Evans '11, of Columbia.

In the Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science for March Dr. Vernon L. Kellogg, '91-2 Grad., describes "The Russian Famine Region" and Professor Thomas N. Carver, Ph.D. '94, of Harvard, discusses "The Equilibrium Age."

In The American Economic Review for March Professor Roy C. Blakey, of the University of Minnesota, discusses "The Revenue Act of 1921." "The Principles of National Economics" by Professor Thomas N. Carver, Ph.D. '94, of Harvard, is reviewed by C. E. P. Professor Abbott P. Usher, of Boston University, reviews Roscher's "Economie Industrielle." Professor Herbert E. Mills, Ph.D. '90, of Vassar, reviews LeRossignol's "What is Socialism?"

In The American Political Science Review for February Professor Robert C. Brooks, Ph.D. '03, of Swarthmore, reviews the first volume of Edward His's "Geschichte des neuen schweizerischen Staatsrechts."

SPORT STUFF

There is a tremendous run of suckers in the Inlet and up the various creeks. The best places are in Fall Creek just above Percy Field. Hundreds are being speared or snared there every evening. You couldn't fire a shot gun up either bank any night without potting two or three prominent business men and a half dozen scholars of international reputation. No amount of culture or supercivilization can wholly eradicate the primitive instinct that forces one of a spring night to slip on his gum boots and go spear himself a mess of suckers.

The forsythia and hyacinths are in bloom. Forehanded householders are oiling up the lawnmower or making arrangements to borrow one. A lot more girls than have any purchases to make in the stores walk up and down State Street in the afternoons. Many of them in their new sport clothes are very soothing to the eyes. Just about the same number of students suffering from optical disturbances sit on the steps of the hotel and take the cure.

It jars one to think he can remember the fathers of some of them—and the professors of more of them—doing the same thing.

ATHLETICS

Team Breaks Even

The baseball team had won two games and lost two on the spring vacation trip by Tuesday. They were to conclude the trip in Baltimore Tuesday afternoon with a game with Johns Hopkins.

The team opened with a victory over the University of Virginia at Charlottesville, last Thursday, the score being 8 to 0. Maloney held Virginia to one hit. Cornell pounded out ten hits, Kaw and Cowan knocking out home runs; Capron, the new varsity third baseman, got a two-bagger and Frantz a three-bagger.

Virginia turned the tables next day, however, winning by the score of 4 to 3. The Southerners tied the score in the eighth and sent the winning run across in the ninth. Schreiner started in the box for Cornell, but was replaced in the second inning by Knipe, a new-comer, who did good work until he was hit by a batted ball and forced in the eighth to retire in favor of Rollo.

At Annapolis last Saturday Cornell defeated the Naval Academy by the score of 5 to 4. Rollo was most effective except in the seventh inning when bunched hits and several errors gave the midshipmen three runs. Cornell got eleven hits to seven for the Middies and played better baseball. The victory, in other words, was earned.

On Monday morning Georgetown defeated Cornell 12 to 5. Maloney, who started on the mound, was wild and gave way to Wolff. Two home runs by Captain Davies were features from the Cornell point of view.

Coach Carney took seventeen players on the trip, as follows: W. R. Rollo, J. N. Maloney, F. O. Schreiner, D. M. Knipe, and H. Wolff, pitchers; B. F. Tone, Jr., D. A. Munns, and E. S. Brown, catchers; H. F. Davies and H. G. Fox, first base; E. C. Woodin, Jr., second base, C. H. Capron, third base, J. S. Cowan, short stop; E. L. Kaw, C. S. Frantz, H. G. Fox, and H. S. Davies, outfielders. G. Bickley went along as a utility infielder and T. Telfer as an outfielder. Fox started at first base, with Davies in center field, but they later exchanged places.

Of this list, Rollo, Maloney, and Schreiner were on last year's pitching staff. Wolff is a former varsity third baseman who has shifted over to pitching this year. Brown caught in some of the games for the varsity last year and Munns was in right field. Tone is a recruit from the freshman team.

Davies, Woodin, and Cowan are all playing the same positions they held last year, while Capron at third comes from last year's yearlings. Kaw and Fox were outfielders on the varsity last season and Frantz is a sophomore, having played freshman baseball last season. Bickley also played freshman baseball, while Telfer, though out before, is playing his first year on the varsity squad.

California to Visit Us

An invitation to the University of California and Stanford track teams to be the guests of the Cornell track team during their stay in the East prior to the Intercollegiate games at Cambridge May 26 and 27, was extended by Cornell last week through Manager Berry. California has accepted, contingent upon faculty approval, and will come to Ithaca about May 18 and compete on May 20 in an informal meet with the Cornell track team. Stanford, however, was unable to accept the invitation because her track team does not expect to arrive in the East until May 24, two days before the meet.

The California team won the Intercollegiate at Cambridge last May. The following paragraph from Romeyn Berry's letter to the two universities explains itself:

"If it fits in with your plans, we could on short notice arrange a track meet for Saturday afternoon, May 20, which could be made as casual or as serious as you desire. The party is the main thing in our minds and the meet is secondary."

The March Industrial Management includes a review of Professors Young and Baxter's "Descriptive Geometry."

C. U. C. A. SEEKS FUNDS

Permission granted to the C. U. C. A. to carry on a campaign for raising funds among the alumni is a radical step for the Cornellian Council. Yet, since the Cornellian Council is in effect a community chest and the C. U. C. A. is one of the most valuable institutions at Cornell, it is obvious that the enterprise should either be supported out of the Alumni Fund or that the Association should have the right to raise funds for itself.

The Cornell University Christian Association derives no support from the international Y. M. C. A. in spite of the similarity in name. The C. U. C. A., being nearly twenty years older than the other, has never felt the necessity of changing its name since the other body came into the field of social work. On the other hand, neither has it traded on the similarity in names to obtain support. It is supported entirely by Cornell contributions.

The work of the C. U. C. A. is thoroughly undenominational, and is performed as cheerfully for a Jew, a Buddhist, or an atheist, as for a Presbyterian or a Catholic. The coffee, the ham slams, and the cigarettes are strictly non-sectarian. The phonograph is more likely to play jazz than church music. The log warms the feet of the unregenerate no less enthusiastically than those of the devout.

The providing of comforts and cheerful surroundings for those who are not a part of the recognized "social system" of the University, and the equally cordial welcoming of those who want but do not necessarily need these benefits, is the present day big job of the C. U. C. A. Until the Union is an accomplished fact, and perhaps long thereafter, this Association will be as essential as was the Salvation Army and its doughnuts in the war.

There are two kinds of Cornellians on whom their appeal for funds is likely to make an impression. The man who was benefited by Barnes Hall in his day, and who appreciates its present day expansion into greater usefulness, will understand. The man who didn't need the C. U. C. A., but who realizes what it means to the boys who do, will also get the big idea.

SIGMA XI FELLOWSHIPS

The Sigma Xi fellowships for 1922-3 are to be awarded in May. Applications should be made to Professor Edward Ellery, Union College, Schenectady, N. Y. The minimum stipend is $1,600. The awards are made in sciences other than physics or chemistry, and to men and women who already have the doctor's degree.

SCHOOL ENTERTAINS ALUMNI

The Cornell Club of Rochester was the guest of the East High School seniors at a supper held on March 13. About sixty students of the high school and an equal number of Cornell alumni were present. Ralph H. Gorsline '88 acted as toastmaster. George C. Wright '03, president of the club, spoke on activities of the alumni. J. Emmett O'Brien '15, secretary of the club, Frank J. Clary '17 and Charles O. Heath '17 gave short talks on rowing, baseball, and track athletics. Hugh J. MacWilliams '12 was installed as "pep" master and added to the life of the occasion.

The Cornell Club imported Romeyn Berry '04, graduate manager, and Professor Charles L. Durham '99, from Ithaca. Berry spoke on the relation of athletics to college life, giving a picture of what the freshman might expect on entering any of the larger universities. Professor Durham told about student life and activities. He paid tribute to the standards of scholarship maintained by the Rochester high schools.

Albert H. Wilcox, principal of East High School, gave a talk on preparation for college. Moving pictures, sent from Ithaca, were shown, picturing athletic events, scenes around the Campus, the alumni convention in Cleveland last May, and the inauguration of President Farland.

OBITUARY

Stephen T. King '88

Stephen Trowbridge King, theatrical manager, died in New York Hospital on April 3, after a brief illness. He was a native of Nevada, and came to Cornell in 1884, taking an optional course, and becoming a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon. He left at the end of his freshman year and went into business as a stock broker, and in 1890 he became a theatrical manager. He was manager of "Wang" with De Wolfe Hopper and Della Fox, and had also managed shows for Charles H. Hoyt and Charles Frohman.

Funeral services were held on April 7 in the Funeral Church.

Minnie T. Murray '95

Miss Minnie Theresa Murray died of pneumonia on March 9 at the home of her sister, Mrs. Anna Conley, 210 College Avenue, Ithaca. She had been in ill health for the past five years.

Miss Murray was born on October 25, 1874, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Murray of Ithaca, and graduated from Cornell in 1895 with the degree of B.L. For eight years she was private secretary to Dean Liberty Hyde Bailey.

Frank G. Curtis '03

Frank George Curtis died at his home in Jamestown, N. Y., on March 15, after an illness of a few days, due to a carbuncle on his neck.

He was born on August 8, 1879, a son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Curtis of Jordan, N. Y., and prepared for college at the Jamestown High School, where he was prominent in athletics. He entered the Cornell Law School in 1900, receiving the degree of LL.B. in 1903. He was a member of Phi Sigma Kappa.

He practiced law in Jamestown from 1903 to 1915, and was active in politics there for many years, having served at one time as assistant district attorney for Chautauqua County. Six or seven years ago he became interested in the oil business in Wyoming, securing leases of oil territory in that state and organizing several corporations, chief among which was the New York Oil Company, of which he was president and which has extensive holdings. He was also president of the Wyoming Central Association of Casper, Wyo., and secretary of the Curtis Machine Corporation of Jamestown, N. Y., and was interested in The Casper Daily Tribune and The Wyoming Weekly Review, both published in Casper.

Curtis is survived by his widow, Mrs. Harriet Smith Curtis, three brothers, D. Allen and Edward W. Curtis of Jamestown and Herman Curtis of Casper, and two sisters, Mrs. Harry Rask and Mrs. Jessie Scowden of Jamestown.

The President of Cornell University The Cornell Alumni News The Cornellian Council The Student Council have been enthusiastic in their answer.

“We bespeak the financial support of all Cornellians for the Cornell University Christian Association.”

What weight would you attach to an investigation and report by this group on a matter of interest to you?

What persons or organizations are in a better position to advise you on matters concerning Cornell?

IT CAN'T BE ADVERTISED

The real work of the C. U. C. A. can't be advertised.

Much can be said about the Cornell Coffee House, a start towards a Student Union; about the weekly attendance of 600 at the Current Events Forum and discussion groups; about the provision for meeting places for fifty undergraduate organizations; about the employment and hospitality services. But it is not possible to do more than suggest the far-reaching and beneficial results from the contacts and influence of a staff of seven thoroughly trained specialists who coach the different branches of C. U. C. A. activity.

$12,000 NEEDED BY JUNE 1

Seven thousand dollars must be raised by June 1 to enable the Association to carry on its work successfully the rest of this year.

As a business measure, the Board of Directors of the Association is making an effort to build up a suitable endowment, eventually to relieve the alumni body of the responsibility of supporting the C. U. C. A. directly. For this purpose $5,000 is being sought in this campaign as the first increment of an endowment fund, making a total of $12,000 that is sought from Cornellians for the work of the Christian Association this year.

Cornell undergraduates are supporting this work to the full extent of their ability. Twelve thousand dollars is a small amount when spread over a large body but it is essential if the work of the C. U. C. A. is to be carried on in a progressive manner. Some substantial gifts are necessary.

This is the Cornell Plan--IT NEEDS YOUR SUPPORT

FACULTY NOTES

DEAN ALBERT R. MANN '04 left Ithaca on April 6 at the invitation of the State Board of Administration of Kansas, to serve with the president of the University of Minnesota in making a survey of the educational institutions of Kansas.

PROFESSOR HAROLD E. BABCOCK has sailed for Bermuda at the request of the Colonial Government, and will remain there a month to assist the agricultural population of the Islands to increase their efficiency in the production and distribution of their crops.

PROFESSOR JAMES G. NEEDHAM, Ph. D. '98, in an open letter to The Ithaca Journal-News, has declared himself to be vigorously opposed to daylight saving, alleging that its benefits are illusory and without any basis of fact, and that the confusion of departure from normal time is unmitigated.

DR. LIVINGSTON FARRAND left on April 5 for another speaking tour, including in his itinerary New York, Pittsburgh, and Washington. On April 6, he was the guest of honor at a banquet given in New York by the Cornell Society of Engineers.

DEAN DEXTER S. KIMBALL'S address to the engineers of America, sent out on April 3 from the radio broadcasting station of the General Electric Company of Schenectady, was a feature of the Company's radio program for that evening.

PROFESSOR J. CHESTER BRADLEY spoke before the Natural History Society of Worcester, Massachusetts, March 17, on "Some Habits of Wasps."

'24 STARTS MEMORIAL

Following the custom of the past thirteen years, plans are being formulated for a canvass of the class of '24 for subscriptions to the Alumni Fund, which in the aggregate will constitute the 1924 class memorial to the University. The Student Council has appointed a committee of one hundred and twenty-seven men with Joel W. Healy '22, of Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, as chairman to take charge of this campaign, which will be launched the latter part of April. The subscriptions will be tendered through the Cornellian Council.

The class of 1909 inaugurated the custom of giving this form of class memorial and every class since that time has followed this tradition. The classes of '20, '21, '22, and '23 established four class memorial professorships, their subscriptions being made to the Alumni Fund payable through the Cornellian Council.

The canvass will also endeavor to reach members of the senior and Junior classes who did not subscribe to their class memorial professorships at the time of the Endowment Campaign.

LOCKPORT ALUMNI ORGANIZE

The annual luncheon of the Cornell alumni of Lockport, New York, was held at the Y. M. C. A. in Lockport on April 8. Harold Flack '12, executive secretary of the Cornellian Council, was the speaker at this luncheon and he carried the greetings of the University to the Cornellians of Niagara County. A permanent organization was effected at this luncheon. William C. Shapleigh '91 was elected president. Upon the recommendation of Judge Cuthbert W. Pound '87, Shapleigh was unanimously elected to represent the Lockport club at the Cornell Convention in Chicago on April 20-21. Forty-two Cornellians, including about fifteen undergraduates, were present at this luncheon.

TAU BETA PI ELECTIONS

Tau Beta Pi on March 30 elected to membership the men whose names appear below. Fix got his C in rowing on March 1. Ezra Cornell is a great-grandson of the Founder. Both Orton and Fix are members of Delta Upsilon. Baker is a member of Theta Alpha.

Mechanical Engineering: Edward Vreeland Baker, Willsboro, N. Y.; Ezra Cornell, San Rafael, Calif.; Frederick William Fix, Jr., Chicago; John Hannigan, Forty Fort, Pa.; Graham Daniel Horne, Rocky Mount, N. C.; Stephen Moore Jenks, Woodbury, N. J.; Leo Quackenbush, Warwick, N. Y.; Donald Atwater Rogers, Oswego, N. Y.; Louis Arthur Winkelman, Baltimore.

Civil Engineering: Dwight Lothrop Copeland, West Bridgewater, Mass.; Benjamin Henry Palmer, Jr., Norwich Town, Conn.; Felix Emi Spurney, Long Island City, N. Y.

Chemistry: Guy Raymond Gillette, Oil City, Pa.

Architecture: Frederic Faris, Wheeling, W. Va.

Faculty, Active Membership: Adam Clarke Barnes, Jr., assistant professor of engineering.

Honorary Membership: Fred Asa Barnes '97, professor of railroad engineering; Arthur Wesley Browne '03, professor of chemistry.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NOTES

WILLIAMS will soon begin a campaign to raise $1,500,000. Of this $1,000,000 (of which $200,000 has been conditionally promised by the General Education Board) will be used for the increase of salaries and the remainder for the improvement of work in physical education.

DR. MARION EDWARDS PARK, a graduate of Bryn Mawr of the class '98, has been elected president of Bryn Mawr College, to succeed Dr. M. Carey Thomas '77, who lately resigned.

DR. CHARLES W. FLINT, now of Cornell College, will be inaugurated chancellor of Syracuse University on June 15.

ALUMNI NOTES

'72 MS—Dr. David Starr Jordan was one of the guests of honor at the annual dinner of the Yale Club of Southern California at the Los Angeles Club on March 4, and spoke "very interestingly and authoritatively" on present conditions in Europe.

'74—Dr. Melville Best Anderson is now in Italy continuing his Dante studies.

'86 CE; '91—Miss Frances Amelia Browne (Stanford University '19) daughter of Professor Charles B. Wing '87, of Stanford and Mrs. Wing (Marian Colt '91) was married in the Stanford Memorial Chapel on March 18 to Robert N. Wenzell. Mrs. Wenzell is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta. Wenzell graduated from Stanford in 1916 in chemistry, winning election to Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi. He is with the Monsanto Chemical Company of St. Louis.

'89 CE—Dean John F. Hayford, of the School of Engineering of Northwestern University, has received a grant of $3,000 from the Carnegie Institution of Washington for the purpose of carrying on researches into scientific laws governing evaporation and stream flow from the Great Lakes and other large inland bodies of water.

'93, '94 CE—Willis H. Loomis was the organizer of the W. H. Loomis Tale Corporation of Gouverneur, N. Y., which opened and developed an old tale mine and built a mill introducing a new double air float system of producing short fibre tale. He is president of the corporation.

'96, '97 ME—Clarence W. Gail is in the sales department of the American Shipbuilding Company, Cleveland, Ohio. He lives at 1455 Waterbury Road, Lakewood, Ohio.

'98 AB—Since November last Miss Kate M. Schutt has been statistician in the United States Treasury Department. Previously for three years she was statistician of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. She lives at 2213 Fourteenth Street, Northwest, Washington, D. C.

'02 ME—Joseph P. Kittredge is still located in Sharon, Pa., as manager of the National Malleable Castings Company. He has two sons.

'07 ME—Frederick G. Shull was recently made district sales manager in charge of Connecticut sales for the Aluminum Company of America, with headquarters at 504 Liberty Building, New Haven, Conn. He was in the Boston office of the company for several years, and in 1919 he was transferred to Dallas, Texas, where he opened a branch sales office for the Southwest. He has two sons, one four years old and one two months old.

of the Rev. David S. Tappan in Los Angeles, Calif. He was the father of Professor Frank G. Tappan, M.E. 'c7, of Norman, Okla., who was an instructor in the Department of Electrical Engineering from 1907 to 1918, and Miss Anna Helen Tappan, A.M. '12, Ph.D. '14, of Ames, Iowa. Mr. Tappan had been a Presbyterian minister, and was formerly president of Miami University at Oxford, Ohio. He leaves also his widow, three other sons, Paul, who is practicing medicine in Dayton, George, with the General Electric Company in Schenectady, and the Rev. David Tappan, who is a missionary in China, and three other daughters, Oella, Julia, and Margaret, all of whom are living in California.

'c8, '12 ME—The J. B. Lang Engine and Garage Company of Ithaca has opened an electric service station, in charge of J. Arthur Fish 'c9. Fish has been associated with the Russell Motor Car Company of Toronto, the Cycle Motor Corporation of Rochester, N. Y., the Starter and Ignition Service Company of Rochester, N. Y., and the Roessler and Hassalacher Chemical Company of Perth Amboy, N. J.

'10 ME—Stanley W. Cook was recently elected vice-president and factory manager of Whiting and Cook, Inc. After leaving Cornell, Cook studied law at Washington University, and was admitted to the bar. He practiced in Chicago for several years, specializing in patent law, and in 1917 he entered the Naval Ordnance Department, being placed in charge of some production contracts for naval ordnance supplies. At the close of the war he became associated with the Gillette Safety Razor Company of Boston, resigning this position to accept the vice-presidency of Whiting and Cook, Inc.

'10 ME—Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. McClave of Scranton, Pa., announce the birth of a son on February 19.

'10 ME—Harold D. Tompkins is assistant treasurer of the Smooth-On Manufacturing Company, Jersey City, N. J. He lives at 572 Communipaw Avenue.

'10 AM; '20 PhD; '14 PhD—Dr. Ma-

for E. Holmes '10, manager of the chemical department of the National Lime Association of Washington, and Dr. Gail J. Fink '14, research chemist with the association, are carrying on extended research into the properties and uses of lime in the chemical arts and industries. Dr. Holmes has prepared a notably comprehensive chart of the uses of lime and presented a paper before the recent meeting of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers in Baltimore on the functional uses of lime which included this chart. The paper and chart were printed in The Journal of Chemical and Metallurgical Engineering for February 15.

'10 AB—Dean William F. Russell has recently returned to the University of Iowa after several months' absence and travel in the Far East. Dean Russell left Iowa City last August as a member of a Commission appointed by the Foreign Missions Conference of North America and England to investigate conditions in the mission schools of China. The personnel of the Commission included a number of prominent educators. Dr. E. D. Burton, of Chicago, was chairman; other members were President Kenyon Butterfield of Pittsburgh, formerly of DePauw, Professor Percy R. Roxby, professor of geography at the University of Liverpool, and Miss Mary Emma Woolley, president of Mt. Holyoke. This Commission visited schools all over China and had frequent conferences with educators of that country. A report of the Commission is to be published shortly in both Chinese and English.

'11 ME—Mortimer Frankel has moved his office from the Monadnock Building to 430 South Green Street, Chicago, Ill.

Our Book Lists

IN the Spring you do not need to live on a farm to be interested in Agricultural Books. In the outskirts or suburbs you can have a garden and chickens. Many have both at the same time in spite of the comic papers. Ask for the Agricultural Book List.

Whitman's SHIELD CHOCOLATES

We have just received notice of another drop in the price of candy. We still pay the postage but the price is only $1.75 per pound on the "SHIELD" chocolates made by Whitman.
