VOL. XXV, No. 30

ITHACA, N. Y., MAY 3, 1923

PRICE 12 CENTS

CHARRETTING has gone, by Faculty edict of the College of Architecture. Taking its name from the little carts that carried the offerings of Parisian art students to the annual exhibition, alongside of which ran the creators of the master-pieces, painting in the last touches as the designs were hurried to the gallery, it meant at Cornell the all-night vigils over problems due on a definite date. Perhaps it begot procrastination; no doubt it had its abuses. Hollow-eyed students in smocks used to await the early opening of Sibley Dog, in the old days, there to attempt a recuperation on many cups of strong coffee, before going back to the plans and renderings upon which their marks depended. Some could stand many hours of consecutive labor, turning night into day, and burning the candle at both ends; but many could not. From now on, tasks must be started earlier, must be worked at more sequaciously, and must be completed on a more rational schedule. It is all less picturesque, but is more conserving of health and more conducive to effective habits of working, according to the Faculty.

ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS banqueted on April 27 for the first time in several years. Professor Arthur W. Browne '03, of the Department of Chemistry, was toastmaster, and among the speakers were Professor Paul M. Lincoln, director of the School, Professor Eugene P. Andrews '95, and Calvert Townley, recently president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

THE STUDENTS have a definite name for the present period of relative quiet preceding the activities that center around Spring Day, which comes May 19, and they designate it as the "Second Prelim Spasm." It is a time of work for those who are wise enough to fore-arm themselves against the pleasant spring days that fill Alumni Field with some thousands of young folks at play during the long afternoons, and make the house stewards rave because dinners are delayed to finish interfraternity athletic contests.

PREPARATIONS are under way, however, for the events that are soon to follow. The annual charity show of Ithaca will have many undergraduates in its cast of "The Arabian Nights of 1923", to be given at the Lyceum Theatre on May 17. Sigma Delta Chi is about ready for the annual review of the year's events, with pointed satire in most of the treatments. And, of course, Spring Day committees are working over-time.

LAWYERS gathered at the annual banquet of The Cornell Law Quarterly on April 28, when Dean George G. Bogert '06, Judge Cuthbert W. Pound '87, and George A. Blauvelt '90, of Tulsa, Oklahoma were the principal speakers.

THE FLIVVER will have a prominent place in the Spring Day festivities, according to the latest plans; and no matter what the former exploits of the ubiquitous rebuilt Fords may have been, they are to be outclassed on that day of daze. It may be the last chance for them, because the activities of the Ithaca police, and prospective regulation by the Trustees, as far as the Campus is concerned, may place them all in the limbo of the architects' St. Patrick's Day dragon and the jag car up the Hill.

CARL SANDBURG, reading on April 23 to a packed house in Barnes Hall auditorium, divided the literati and the cognoscenti of the place into opposing camps. And lots of backing may be had for those who designate him a virile voice with a vital point of view, and also for those who heard only vapid vociferations.

JOACHIM FRIEDRICH, representative of the Young German Movement, explained some of the internal problems of the new government before the Current Events Forum in Barnes Hall on April 22; among the statements he made was one that the University students of Continental Europe were by no means in advance of those in this country, even though they seemed to take a more active part in political and governmental affairs.

ARGUMENTS for America's participation in the League of Nations were presented by Professor William E. Dodd, of the History Department of the University of Chicago, in an address in Goldwin Smith Hall on April 23. He spoke of such participation as America's obligation to Europe in the present crisis. Professor Dodd is a close friend of former President Woodrow Wilson, and a thorough believer in his policies.

LECTURES for the week included "Recent Excavations in Palestine" by Professor William J. Hinke, of the Auburn Theological Seminary, under the auspices of the Lake Cayuga Society, now a chapter of the Archaeological Institute of America; and Professor Boothroyd's public lecture at the Fuertes Observatory.

AT THE RECENT annual meeting of the Ithaca Y. M. C. A. the following were elected directors for a term of three years: William A. Boyd, Arthur L. Huff, John S. Howell '12, Charles H. Newman '13, Prof. William M. Sawdon, M.M.E. '08, and Prof. Charles L. Walker '04.

THE KNICKERBACKER BURSARIES are announced as open for applications after July 1. Three or four of these endowments will be available to deserving students as an aid in getting a Cornell education. They are gifts of John Knickerbacker '86, of Troy, who stipulates that they shall be awarded to men of good minds, strong bodies, and sound morals, who are the children of American parents, both of whom have been born in the United States. Students benefiting by the bursaries may borrow to the extent of $600 a year, and one half of the sum may be regarded as a gift, the other part as a loan repayable in from five to ten years after graduation, with interest at two percent. Applications may be made to the University Secretary, 27 Morrill Hall.

NEW RULES for the conduct of the honor system have been adopted by the committee charged with the administration of the system. They provide that full proceedings shall be published in respect to all cases brought before the committee, but that absolute secrecy shall be observed as to the names of all summoned before the committee. Of two cases recently reported to the committee, one was dismissed because of lack of evidence, and the other was held over for the purpose of ascertaining additional facts.

THE DRIVER of the R. O. T. C. truck that figured in a traffic accident recently, was exonerated of all blame by the inquest verdict on the death of Mrs. W. A. Rogers of Cayuta. Since the verdict was rendered, Mr. Rogers, who had been in the Ithaca City Hospital as the result of injuries received at the time his wife was killed, finally succumbed, although it was hoped that he might recover.

A LONG QUEUE waited in line on a night that turned frosty, to get Spring Day tickets, in spite of all that could be done to dissuade them by the athletic management, which assured enough to go around, in accordance with an arrangement that should have solved all difficulties. Finally, the waiters agreed to take numbers, which they presented for priority the next morning, so that the chilled frosh could go home to warm beds.

ITHACA will have no day-light saving this year. Some of the administrative offices, particularly in the College of Agriculture, are discussing the possibility of beginning the day's work at eight o'clock instead of at nine.

THE PARABOLA CLUB, an organization of mathematicians at Cornell, arranged to hear Professor H. M. Morse speak on Einstein's theory of relativity at a meeting April 25, for both the club and the public.

Trustees Make Appointments

Two New Professors Added to Faculty—Many Promotions Made

Several important appointments to the University Faculty marked the meeting of the Board of Trustees held in Ithaca on Saturday, which was for the primary purpose of adopting next year's budget.

Two appointments in the Departments of Political Science and Government and Public Law are of particular interest. Harold L. Reed '14 Grad. was appointed professor of economics and finance, and Robert E. Cushman was appointed professor of government and public law, to succeed to the chair occupied by the late Professor Samuel P. Orth.

Professor Reed is well known at Cornell, having been a graduate student, instructor, and assistant professor here. He took the degree of A.B. at Oberlin in 1911 and then studied for three years at Cornell, working especially under Professors Edwin W. Kemmerer, Alvin S. Johnson and Allyn A. Young. He had a fellowship in political science. He obtained the Ph.D. degree here in 1914 with a thesis on "A Gold Exchange Standard for India." Then he was a year at Cornell and a year at New York University as instructor in economics. Returning here in 1916, he held an assistant professorship for three years. In 1918-19 he had leave of absence for war service. Since 1920 he has been professor of economics in Washington University, St. Louis. His publications include "The Development of Federal Reserve Policy," brought out by the Houghton Mifflin Company last year, and numerous articles and reviews.

Professor Cushman was born at Akron, Ohio, about 35 years ago. He took the degree of bachelor of arts at Oberlin College in 1911, in the same class with Professor Reed. Soon afterward he began a course of graduate study at Columbia, where, for a year, he was G. W. Curtis Fellow in political science. Columbia bestowed the degree of doctor of philosophy on him in 1915. Then he went to the University of Illinois, where he was an instructor in political science for three years. Since 1918 he has been associate professor of political science in the University of Minnesota. His publications include "Excess Condemnation" (Appleton, 1917), and contributions to technical and general reviews.

Promotions of assistant professors to full professorships were as follows:

Ernest P. Burnham in Architecture, Laurence Pumpelly in the Romance Languages and Literatures; Victor R. Gage '06 in Experimental Engineering; Arthur Ranum '93-6 Grad., in Mathematics; Gustave F. Heuser '15 in Poultry Husbandry; Beulah Blackmore '18 in Home Economics; John C. McCurdy '12 in Rural Engineering; Robert Matheson '06 in Economic Entomology, and Laurence H. McDaniels '17 in Pomology. Millard V. Atwood '10 assistant professor in the Extension Service and assistant chief of publications of the College of Agriculture, and Gilbert W. Peck '11 assistant professor of Pomology in the Extension Service, were also promoted to the grade of professor.

The resignation of Professor William L. Westermann of the Department of History was formally announced to the board by President Farrand. Professor Westermann has accepted a professorship in the Graduate School of Columbia University.

The board also elected Frank H. Randolph '17 as assistant professor of institutional engineering in the College of Agriculture, while E. F. Guba was elected assistant extension professor of plant pathology.

The following instructors were promoted to assistant professorships: Miss Reena Roberts in Home Economics, Miss Clara L. Garrett '08 in drawing, and Van B. Hart '16 in farm management.

A leave of absence for the second term of next year was granted to Professor Hugh D. Reed, of the Department of Zoology.

Discussion which came up on the question of regulation of traffic on the Campus was referred to the Committee on Buildings and Grounds and will come up for consideration at the next meeting of the Trustees.

'93 REUNION COMMITTEE

The committee in charge of the thirty-year party of the Class of '93 has been named as follows: Edwin B. Katté, chairman, George W. Cavanaugh, Wilbur F. Evans, Mary R. Fitzpatrick, George De B. Greene, James P. Harrold, Ernest R. Hill, Arthur C. Howland, Mary J. Hull, Carleton E. Ladd, Harlan Moore, Herman D. Newcomb, Clark S. Northup, class secretary, James T. Rogers, E. Vail Stebbins, Ernest I. White, and Rollin H. White.

The secretary of the class says: "Princeton '93 boasts of a man who is coming all the way from Constantinople for his reunion: we don't blame him for wanting to leave Con. We can't quite match that, but we have Buck Andrews coming from Honolulu, and Berkeley Moss is planning to cross the Great Divide from Los Angeles. Reservations are coming in satisfactorily, and it is a certainty that this affair is going to be a real event in the lives of the young ladies and gentlemen of '93."

No, the dancing Marathon craze has not struck Cornell.

AT THE MEETING of the Cornell Section of the American Chemical Society on April 30 the following papers were presented: "Germanium from American Zinc Blends" by Edgar B. Johnson, Grad.; and "The Effects of Certain Pigments on the Rate of Oxidation of Linseed Oil" by Alfred E. Van Wirt '23.

Rochester Comes to Ithaca

Thirty-Five Members of Cornellian Council Group Get First Hand Inspiration

Thirty-five Cornell men residing in Rochester and vicinity and representing a part of the Cornellian Council Committee which has just launched a campaign for the Alumni Fund in that district, came to Ithaca as the guests of the Council and the University on Saturday, April 28. This is the first time a group of Alumni from one section of the country has made an official visit to the University in this way.

Arriving in Ithaca by automobile in the middle of the morning, the visitors were piloted around the campus on "a personally conducted tour" by Harold Flack '12, executive secretary of the Cornellian Council and Charles E. Curtis '85, the superintendent of buildings and grounds. They visited the new Drill Hall, the athletic field, the new steam heating plant which has just been completed, the new Chemical Laboratory, now nearing completion, the new Johnny Parson Club, and the new dormitories.

The Rochester alumni were entertained at luncheon at the Baker Dining Hall, at which Professor Durham gave an address of welcome. A special section was reserved at the Princeton-Cornell baseball game in the afternoon.

President Farrand received the guests officially in his office at five o'clock and told them how much the University appreciated what they were planning to do for Cornell in the Alumni Fund campaign in Rochester.

Fifteen members of the party stayed over to attend a dinner given by the Cornellian Council for the Alumni Fund Committee of the senior class at the Coffee House.

At the time of their visit to Ithaca the Rochester Committee had been completely organized for the coming campaign. Ten teams of six men each were planning to start out on Thursday morning, May 3, in an endeavor to reach every Cornellian in Wayne, Monroe, Orleans, Livingston, Ontario, and Genesee Counties.

The campaign was officially launched at a smoker at the Powers Hotel in Rochester on Wednesday evening, May 2, at which Professor Durham was the guest of honor and principal speaker.

WOMEN STUDENTS are discussing the possibility of establishing a newspaper to present more adequately their interests. Some years ago they published a mimeographed sheet, known as The Bulletin, which was taken over by The Cornell Daily Sun for approximately the price of its debts. Some of the women now claim that the Sun does not wholly live up to the agreement, made at that time, to give them as much space and as good service as was furnished by the Bulletin.

UNUSUAL GIFT FROM GURLEY '77

The University Library has received from William F. E. Gurley '77, Chicago, Ill., a grangerized copy of Champlin's "Cyclopedia of Painters and Paintings," expanded from the original four volumes of the limited edition to twelve volumes by insertion of engravings, etchings, wood cuts, etc., in their proper places, to illustrate the works of the artists included in the volumes.

This process takes its name from the Rev. James Granger, whose "Biographical History of England," 1769, was extra-illustrated to an extravagant extent. The work requires the greatest pains and skill, not only in selecting the extra illustrations, but in sizing them so as to make them uniform with the sheets in the original work. In many cases they have to be carefully inlaid to build them up to proper size.

This set is beautifully bound in morocco with gold tooling. Being one of the standard reference works for the subject of fine arts, the use made of it is very great, but this extra-illustrated edition will be reserved for special workers in this field, and it will remain for all time a monumental collection of artistic reproductions of the great examples of the world's graphic art.

ROTH '16 GETS D. S. C.

Lieut. Paul Krusa Roth '16 is one of the two men to whom the Distinguished Service Cross was awarded by Major General Robert L. Bullard on April 12 at a meeting held in the Town Hall, New York, in commemoration of the anniversary of the entry of United States into the World War. His citation follows:

"Paul Krusa Roth, first lieutenant, Company M, 306th Infantry, 77th Division. For extraordinary heroism in action near St. Thibaut, Bazoches, France, August 10, 1918. Constantly exposed to a terrific concentration of enemy machine-gun and shell fire, without regard to his own safety, he voluntarily and unassisted rescued five badly wounded men of his regiment, carrying each man upon his back for a distance of 150 yards, at all times under observation of the enemy occupying the town of Bazoches. His heroic conduct served as an impressive example to every man of his regiment."

Roth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Roth of Brooklyn, and is a graduate of the Law School and a member of Chi Phi and Phi Delta Phi. While in college he was a member of the freshman football team, the varsity basketball squad, the varsity soccer team, and his college basketball team, and served on a number of committees. He entered the service in 1917, and after receiving a commission at Plattsburg as second lieutenant he was assigned to Company L, 306th Infantry, and was stationed at Camp Upton, N. Y., before going overseas. Later he was transferred to Company M, and promoted to first lieutenant.

In 1916 he was placed in charge of the circulation department of Printing, and in 1917 he helped to organize its Philadelphia branch. After receiving his discharge from the service, Roth became associated with the Walden-Mott Company; then he took a position as purchasing agent for the National City Bank of New York, later becoming manager of the printing department of that bank. A year ago he secured his present position in the sales department of the Urquhart Paper Company. He married Miss Gertrude P. Matthews of Brooklyn on August 18, 1917, and they live at 1537 Brooklyn Avenue, Brooklyn.

SPORT STUFF

For nearly a week I have been away from Ithaca attending athletic trade conventions—baseball breakfasts, Pennsylvania relays, football dinners, Childs Cup races, and wrestling teas. It seems to be necessary to eat a scandalous amount of shad to keep bright the points of contact in intercollegiate sport.

A week is long enough to slough off the Tompkins County complex and to become again a non-resident alumnus.

We alumni are pretty calm about things at Ithaca at the moment. We are not demanding any head on a charger. Such things as are not satisfactory we feel can probably be fixed up in time just as well by President Farrand as by the Alumni Association of Sylvan Beach, Nebraska. We don't like the football schedule but we hope that even that will ultimately be improved. We hear that the new reunions are pretty good and we're going back this year unless something happens to prevent us as it probably will. When we come back we don't want to see any undergraduates drinking. If anything of that sort is necessary we can attend to it ourselves. We feel that the immigration restriction will have to be let down a little before business gets right. We don't give a damn about the Ruhr and we're pretty disgusted to hear the students spend so much time dancing.

FACULTY NOTES

PROFESSOR EDWARD RAYMOND BOS-SANGE, formerly of the College of Architecture and recently director of the College of Fine Arts at the Carnegie Institute of Technology, has been appointed professor of archaeology and director of the School of Architecture in Princeton.

PROFESSOR ROBERT M. OGDEN '01, of the Department of Education, who is spending a half-year on sabbatic leave at Harvard, spoke before the Harvard

Teachers' Association on April 28 on "The Need of Some New Conceptions in Educational Theory and Practice."

PROFESSOR RIVERDA H. JORDAN, national president of Kappa Phi Kappa, national educational fraternity, was re-elected president at the recent general assembly held at the Hotel McAlpin, New York, on April 6-7.

LOVE AND GEOGRAPHY

On April 27, 28, and 30 the Cornell Dramatic Club gave three performances of Bjornson's "Love and Geography," in Edwin Bjorkman's translation. The palm for unusually fine work goes to John G. Jenkins '23, who, as Professor Tygeson, made a distinct hit. His acting had spirit, energy, and intelligence. Sylvia Wilde '24 as Mrs. Birgit Romer displayed an easy manner and rendered her lines in such a way as to reveal complete comprehension of the friend's part. Scarcely less effective was the work of Carolyn Slater '23 as Mrs. Karen Tygeson. The most difficult part to render was that of Malla Rambek, taken by Harriet Barton '24; she threw herself into it and achieved a high degree of success. Helen Northup '23, as the servant, Ane, who was afraid of ghosts, made some good comedy. LaVerne Baldwin '25, as Turman, the friendly professor and marriage-hater, displayed the right amount of temperament, and Arthur L. Woehl '23 as Henning, the painter, acted with restraint and dignity. Elsa Ernst '23 played skillfully the part of Helga Tygeson, the flapper daughter of the professor and his wife. The play was directed by Lee S. Hultzen '18, assisted by Edna Chamberlain '24. A portrait was contributed by Helen Nichols '25.

Since its organization in 1909 the Dramatic Club has produced over two hundred plays. This year it has thus far given sixteen one-act and two three-act plays.

BALLOTING for senior Class Day officers was more spirited than in any recent year. As the result of the election, James H. Luther, captain of basketball, was chosen as historian; Louis E. Reed, former business manager of the Era, is orator; Mary G. Willcox, essayist; Chilson H. Leonard, editor of the Cornell Countryman, poet; Willis K. Wing, editor of the Widow, prophet. M. W. Fillius Varsity stroke is junior custodian of the class pipe, which will be passed on to him by the present custodian, Lawrence B. Pryor.

THE FIRING PROBLEMS of the R. O. T. C. artillery unit drew large gatherings to see the effects of real projectiles during several days of manuevers.

THE HIRAM CORSON PRIZE for the best essay submitted in competition on a subject connected with the work of Robert Browning was won by M. L. Wilder, a graduate student, who wrote on "The Development of Character in Paracelsus."

CLUB ACTIVITIES

Los Angeles

The Cornell Club of Southern California holds regular weekly luncheons at the University Club, 614 S. Hope Street, Los Angeles, every Thursday at 12:30. Any visitor in the vicinity is privileged to take advantage of this gathering of Cornellians.

Chicago

Cornellians and their families were the guests of the Adventurers' Club of Chicago at a "Ladies Night" of the Club on April 25, which was the occasion of an illustrated address by Frank Branch Riley, the well known lecturer on the northwest. The talk was followed by a buffet supper, and preceded by the regular "Ladies Night" dinner of the Adventurers' Club.

Detroit

Detroit Cornellians heard some inside dope on "The Greek Situation in the East" when George Laskarif, a Detroit lawyer, and editor of the Greek paper, Proodos, was the guest of honor and speaker at luncheon on April 26.

New York Women

The last meeting of the season of the Cornell Women's Club of New York will be held on Saturday afternoon, May 12, at 2:30 o'clock, at the New York League of Girls' Clubs, 15 East Sixtieth Street. An interesting program has been planned and tea will be served. All Cornell women are cordially invited.

Utica Women

The Cornell Women's Club of Utica is an active organization even though many of the women are at the same time members of the Cornell Club of Utica. Meetings are held informally. The officers are: president, Miss Joanna M. Donlon '18; vice-president, Miss Florence E. Seeley '85; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. Bert Wilson (Louise Dean) '18; recording secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Charles Beakes (Emily Lewis) '18.

Springfield

A good meeting of the Cornell University Club of Springfield was held at the Nayassett Club on April 14. Following a radio discussion the meeting adjourned to the Westinghouse plant, where an inspection was made of the radio department.

The next meeting of the club is a luncheon meeting at the Cooley Hotel on May 12. Mr. Sherman, editor of the Union, will speak on "Modern Journalism." The club will later be the guests of "Art" Shean '10, president of the Eastern League Baseball Association, at a baseball game.

Havana

The Havana Post tells of the formation of the Cornell Club of Cuba on the occasion of Professor Vladimir Karapetoff's recent visit to the Island Republic.

"Ex-students of Cornell University held a dinner reunion Friday evening at the Paris in honor of Professor Vladimir Karapetoff, professor of electrical engineering at Cornell. The following were present: Professor Karapetoff, Frank L. Getman '99, Malcolm A. Rue '99, Chester Torrance '99, George T. Street '03, Manuel V. Cuervo '06, Frank E. Lawrence '06, Jose C. Pagliery '08, Tomlinson C. Ulbright '08, R. W. Tassie '09, Sebastian Estrada '10, Lawrence E. Gowling '11, Roberto A. Andrade '13, Charles H. Ballou '14, Paul Perez '14, Roland H. Hill '16, Francisco Ferrer '17, Juan R. Torroella '18, Raoul Cowley '20, Vidal Ducasse '20, Arthur W. Hatch '20, Rafael M. Cowley '21, and Miguel Rosich.

"The Cornell Club of Cuba was formed. Ulbright was elected president and Street, Lonja 524, was elected secretary and treasurer. All ex-Cornell students, graduates or or not, should send the secretary their names and addresses and the name and address of anyone who is eligible for membership."

LITERARY REVIEW

An Italian Humorist

Teodoro the Sage. By Luigi Lucatelli. Translated by Morris G. Bishop '13. New York. Boni & Liveright. 1923. 20.5 cm., pp. viii, 238. Price $2.

Morris Bishop has placed us under a considerable debt of gratitude for this translation, and we hope that as the owner of the American rights of this work he will reap a suitable reward for his labors. The translation has been well done.

The book gives us an insight well worth while into the workings of a mind that distinctly interests us. Luigi Lucatelli (1877-1915), a young Roman whose family had a decidedly liberal tendency, "loved his country with the flaming ardor one dedicates to the cause for which one's own blood, or the blood of one's kin, has been shed. The epic of Italy thrilled in him, in whose blood was the tradition of his family's heroic devotion, as members of those secret societies sworn to the liberation of the fatherland from slavery, to the consummation of its unity, to the establishment of its independence." He became a brilliant journalist connected with II Corriere d'Italia, La Patria, and J. L. Secolo of Milan. He created an unforgettable character, Oronzo E. Marginati, through whose imaginary pen he satirized men and manners without mercy. The popularity of O. E. M. became so great that he was once nominated for office by one of the electoral districts of Rome, just as Andrew Gump has been named for Congress.

Only the first dozen of these sketches have to do with Teodoro Nascia, the cheerful pessimist. The remaining forty-three purport to come from a more mysterious and a grimmer pessimist, J. B. Arcisofo. They are gloomy enough; but the humorist can never be an utter pessimist. And even Arcisofo's humor is constructive. "Till now the kings have made us fix our eyes upon the earth and the priests have made us fix our eyes on heaven. Enough! Let us fix our eyes upon ourselves. Let us actively multiply the harmonies of the five notes we possess, so that we may develop to the full our faculties for enjoying this mud-ball lost in space. Let us celebrate our marriage with Life. Let us ennoble Matter in the name of Thought, her son."

Books and Magazine Articles

In The University of California Chronicle for April "Olympic Victor Monuments and Greek Athletic Art" by Professor Walter W. Hyde '93, of the University of Pennsylvania, is reviewed by Oliver M. Washburn, who calls it "the most scholarly and valuable contribution that America has made to the history of ancient sculpture."

In The Historical Outlook for April Professor Earle D. Ross, A.M. '12, Ph.D. '15, of the North Dakota Agricultural College, writes on "The Nationalization of the Democratic Party: an Interpretation of Contemporary Political History." In a map advertisement there is a portrait of Professor Samuel B. Harding, '90-1 Grad., of the University of Minnesota.

The Yale Review for April, includes a review of Marjorie B. Greenbie's "In the Eyes of the East" by William McFee. Llewellyn M. Buell '10, of the University of California, reviews Montrose J. Moses's "Representative One-Act Plays by Continental Authors" and Frank Shay's "Contemporary One-Act Plays of 1921—American."

In The American Historical Review for April Professor Carl Becker reviews Robert Shafer's "Progress and Science: Essays in Criticism." Professor Arthur C. Howland '93, of the University of Pennsylvania, reviews Arthur Tilley's "Medieval France: a Companion to French Studies." Professor Theodore F. Collier, Ph.D. '06, of Brown, reviews Paul Van Dyke's "Catherine de Médecis." Professor Preserved Smith reviews "Weltgeschichte in gemeinverständlicher Darstellung," volume vi, part 1, "Das Zeitalter der Reformation und Gegenreformation von 1517-1660" by Kurt Kaser. "Social Conditions Among the Pennsylvania Germans in the Eighteenth Century as Revealed in German Newspapers Published in America" by Professor James O. Knauss, Ph.D. '18, of the Florida College for Women, is reviewed by Karl F. Geiser.

"The Days of a Man," Dr. David Starr Jordan's autobiography, is reviewed by President Ray L. Wilbur of Stanford in School and Society for April 28; in the London Times Literary Supplement for March 10; and by Demarchus C. Brown in a recent issue of the Indianapolis News, reprinted in The Indiana Alumni Quarterly for April. The Quarterly also prints several pages of extracts from the book.

OBITUARY

Dr. Erving M. Howard '73

Dr. Erving Melville Howard died at his home, 401 Linden Street, Camden, N. J., on April 12, following an operation.

Dr. Howard was seventy-four years of age, and had lived in the same house in Camden for the past forty-three years. Entering Cornell in 1870, he received the degree of B. S. in 1873. He was a member of Philalatheian and a first lieutenant in the Cadet Corps. Later he studied medicine at Hahnemann Medical College, Philadelphia.

He was at one time chief surgeon of the West Jersey Homeopathic Hospital, and was for several years an associate professor in materia medica in Hahnemann Medical College. He retired from active practice about four years ago.

Cyrus S. Palmer '90

Cyrus Story Palmer, superintendent of schools for the third supervisory district of Cattaraugus County, died at his home in Salamanca, N. Y., April 20, at the age of fifty-seven. He had been ill for two weeks, and his death was due to heart failure.

Mr. Palmer was born in Centerville, Allegany County, N. Y., on June 17, 1865, and came to Cornell in 1886, receiving the degree of B. L. in 1890. For twelve years after his graduation he was head of the Angola, N. Y., schools; then was he professor of chemistry in the Connelville School, and was principal of Public School No. 51, in Buffalo, going to Salamanca in 1914 as district superintendent.

He was a member of Angola Lodge, F. and A. M., and of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Salamanca, and was secretary of the board of trustees of the Salamanca City Library.

On August 19, 1891, he married Miss Nellie E. Jones of Hume, N. Y., who survives him. He leaves also a sister, Mrs. Florence Palmer Wood, of Perry, N. Y.

Elmer R. Zimmer '15

Elmer Rosel Zimmer, who was a special student in the College of Agriculture for two years, died at his home in Syracuse, N. Y., on March 22, after an illness of twelve days of pneumonia.

Zimmer was born in Constableville, N. Y., on September 5, 1886, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Zimmer. After attending the schools of Constableville, he entered the Utica Free Academy, coming to Cornell in 1911 for a special course in the College of Agriculture. In 1913-14 he was an assistant in the Department of Animal Husbandry, and the following year he gave up his studies and became an instructor in that department. In 1916 he was appointed county agent for Tioga resigning in 1920 to become secretary of the New York State Holstein-Friesian Association, which position he held at the time of his death.

He was actively interested in every move for the development and betterment of the farming industry in the State, and in the course of his duties he had traveled thousands of miles and met thousands of farmers in the State.

He married Miss Augusta Gilmartin, of Sayre, Pa., in October, 1917; she survives him with two daughters, Mary, aged four, and Jeanne, aged eighteen months, and one son, Charles aged one month.

ROCHESTER'S EXPERIMENT

ONE of our celebrated educators is said to have remarked that he could easily do a year's work in ten months, but that he never could do it in twelve.

A party of Cornell men from Rochester visited Ithaca last week. They talked over the business on which they came, the raising of money for the Alumni Fund. They heard some short talks, ate at Baker mess hall, went to the ball game, saw their friends, and looked over the University. They combined play, information getting, and inspiration gathering in an informal junket to the place that, to them, offers these commodities in the greatest abundance. They were refreshed. They had applied the fundamental principle underlying the professor's remark to the practical task they had undertaken for the university.

It might have seemed an economy of effort to have followed the time-honored custom of inviting inspirational speakers to Rochester to show movies and to paint a word picture of the University. This method, while as good as possible for many localities, is for Rochester probably both uneconomical of time and inefficient. In a job of the size that Rochester Cornellians have undertaken, they can probably well afford to spend an extra day in getting their bearings and restoring their enthusiasm.

Warming up the engine in this way is an experiment. It ought to work out well. We hope it does, for Cornell is proud of the Rochester club, and Ithaca Cornellians enjoyed the visit.

ATHLETICS

Lacrosse Team Wins

The lacrosse team won the first Inter-collegiate League game of the season last Saturday, defeating Yale at New Haven by a score of 2 to 1. The game was fast and closely played. Cornell had possession of the ball the major portion of the first half, but there was no scoring by either team. In the second half Brigden for Cornell broke the ice by a fifteen-yard shot that eluded Captain Collins, the Yale goal tender, whose clever work had held the Cornellians at bay in the first half. G. Hall of Cornell continued the good work by making a pretty back-hand shot into the net. Yale's only score was a clever play by Cook, their center, who took a pass from behind the Cornell net and slipped the ball past Stainton, Cornell's goal keeper. Clarke's work stood out for Cornell, Cook's for Yale.

Tigers Triple Cornell Score

Cornell fell victim to the clever Princeton baseball team on the new field last Saturday, the Tigers winning a seven-inning game by the score of 6 to 2. Rain put an end to play at the end of the seventh. Bunched hits in the sixth inning, with a wild throw by Capron gave the Tigers four runs, and clinched victory.

It had been a pitchers' battle between two southpaws up to that time, both Townsend of Princeton and Henderson of Cornell twirling effectively. It was Henderson's first appearance on the slab in a varsity game and he performed creditably until the sixth, when doubles by Smith and Townsend, singles by Jefferies and Euwer, and a poor throw to first by Capron of Berg's grounder, gave the Tigers four runs. Rollo then relieved Henderson and held the Tigers hitless for the balance of the game, though in the seventh they scored another run when Tone dropped the ball while trying to block Carney at the plate.

Princeton scored first, in the opening inning, when Dinsmore was hit by a pitched ball and Smith tripled.

Cornell evened the count in the fourth when Woodin walked, advanced to third on Telfer's single, and scored when Boohecker muffed Smith's throw to third. The Cornellians went ahead in the fifth. With two out singles by Fox and Brickley scored Tone. Bases were full, but Capron's long fly was caught by Smith. Again in the sixth, with two out, Cornell had the bases full, but Woodin grounded out to first.

Townsend was hit safely six times, but was effective in pinches. He struck out eight Cornellians. Henderson allowed seven hits in all, four in the fatal sixth.

He struck out six men. The box score:

Syracuse Falls Before Knife

The varsity nine defeated Syracuse in a well played game at Syracuse last Wednesday, by a score of 3 to 2. Knife held the Orange batters to three hits. Granai, Syracuse pitcher, struck out thirteen Cornellians but he was hit safely seven times, twice for home runs, Woodin and Frantz making the circuit. Telfer starred with three hits and five put-outs.

The Penn Relays

The track team failed to accomplish much at the annual Pennsylvania Relay Carnival at Philadelphia last Saturday. A. B. Treman finished third in the 120-yard high hurdle race, after winning his heat. Moore of Pennsylvania State won this event, with Brickman of Chicago second, Kaufman of Penn State fourth, and Thompson of Princeton fifth.

Gouinlock was one of five men to tie for third place in the pole vault at 12 feet 6 inches. Brooker of Michigan and Owens of Pennsylvania tied for first at 12 feet 9 inches and Owens won the toss for first.

The Cornell four-mile relay team, Bernart, Bonsal, De Prosse and Kirby, finished fourth, the Navy winning this race, Columbia being second and Georgetown third. In the mile relay race the Cornell team was fifth. No Cornell entry was made in the two-mile relay race, which developed into a spectacular battle between Penn State and Oxford, the American team winning and setting a new world's record of 7 minutes 48 4-5 seconds.

Although Cornell entered a large team not a great deal was expected in the way of points, the idea being largely to give the team, which contains many inexperienced men, the benefit of the competition. More rapid development in track may now be expected, the first objective being the dual meet with Pennsylvania on May 12.

Junior Varsity Stroke Retires

Everett P. Wheeler '23 stroke of the Junior Varsity eight for the past two seasons, has been obliged to give up rowing in order to keep abreast of his University work. Wheeler, who is a student in arts, has quite a bit of field work in botany ahead of him if he would graduate, and he could not get his degree and row at the same time. Besides stroking the last two junior eights to victory, Wheeler was stroke of the freshman crew of 1920, which was considered one of the finest freshman eights in Cornell rowing history.

Walter Rebmann '24 who had been stroking the third combination, is pacing the Junior Varsity at present.

Poloists Beat Cavalry

The polo team won its first home game Saturday, defeating the 101st Cavalry of Brooklyn by a score of 9 to 8. The first six periods ended in a tie, but in the seventh chukker Turner scored the deciding goal. The Cornell team was composed of Turner, Headin, White and Grasselli. On Friday, May 4, the Cornellians will meet Yale in the first of a series of matches in an intercollegiate tournament to be played at Fort Hamilton, Bay Ridge, N.Y.

BRIEF UNIVERSITY NEWS

NINE TEAMS have been appointed, three of them among the women, to canvass the senior class in the interest of the Cornell Alumni Fund.

FRESHMAN BASEBALL contests arranged for the '26 team include games with Hill School, and with the freshman nines of Syracuse, Colgate, Penn State, and Pennsylvania.

MAJOR GENERAL HENRY T. ALLEN spoke in Bailey Hall last Thursday night on invitation of President Farrand, telling of the experiences of the American forces in the Rhine occupation.

THE RIFLE CLUB will meet a rival team in actual competition on the range, instead of through telegraphic competition, when, on May 5, the Cornell marksmen will shoot against those from Syracuse on the local range.

FOREIGN TRAVEL will attract an unusually large number of Cornell students this year, and a common topic of conversation is in anticipation of the pleasures in store for several groups of undergraduates of congenial tastes.

ALUMNI NOTES

'74 ME—William M. Smith is secretary of Arkell and Smith, manufacturers of paper and cotton flour bags, Canajoharie, N. Y. He has held this position since his graduation.

'78 BME—J. McKee Borden retired on December 16, 1920, from the position of secretary of the Department of Public Charities of the City of New York, after twenty-three years of service. Mr. Borden is a member of the Beta Theta Pi Club of New York and a trustee of the American Institute of the City of New York.
