VOL. XXIX, No. 23

ITHACA, N. Y., MARCH 10, 1927

PRICE 12 CENTS

THE persistent hammering of the Sun's editorials, the visit of Dean Hawkes of Columbia, and the discussions in C. U. C. A. forums, have brought the question of the Arts curriculum into the news. Certain results are already manifest. The Faculty, though chastised with scorpions, has 'made no answer to the accusations leveled at it, thus giving an impression of serene indifference to all this hurly-burly. Yet when your representative, disguised as a Willard Straight bus-boy, has swept persistently under the feet of Faculty luncheon groups, he has heard a great buzz of such phrases as "superficial orientation courses," "collapse of sound educational tradition," and "undergraduate lack-wittedness and nincompoopity." The undergraduates are examining critically the value of their four years of education, and that is a good thing. The instructors are discussing college education as a whole, rather than the problems of each specialized subject, and that is a good thing too.

THE CRUX OF THE SUBJECT seems to be that the Faculty clings to the traditional conception of a University—that it is an assembly of scholars giving to those who would learn their wisdom the opportunity of obtaining advanced instruction from specialists. The students persist that the University exists in order to prepare them to be men of modern culture and to do the tasks set by our peculiar modern civilization. The student says: "Teach me to be a man of broad understanding." The teacher replies: "That is not my subject. I shall be glad to teach you mathematics." And most of the argument seems to be an attempt to reconcile these two points of view.

DEAN HAWKES of Columbia said, for instance, at a dinner sponsored by the C. U. C. A., that the college should consider instruction in religion a part of its duty. He has repeated his contention in an article in The New York Herald-Tribune for March 6. "The student has the right to expect the liberal arts college to give him the same chance to study these topics that he has to study chemistry, economics, or fine arts. If a college is unable to provide instruction in every field it would like to cover it can at least tell the student where he can get the best books, so as to satisfy his own curiosity. Further than this objective study of religion I do not think the college needs officially to go."

AT THIS the Professor trained in the old school would cry out in horror. Every educated man must come to his conclusions about religion, but he cannot study the subject-matter and technique of religion as he can that of chemistry, economics, or fine arts. The controversy between these points of view is now raging. We shall not attempt to settle it here, as we should like to see it go on.

ENOUGH OF THIS. The Dramatic Club has just produced Sheridan's "The Critic," impressing again on all beholders the excellent level of acting attained in these performances, and the valuable work the club is doing in exhibiting dramatic masterpieces of different types, times, and provenience. Not only does it offer an instructive course in dramatic literature, it puts on the best shows in town.

THE NEW PRESIDENT of the Musical Clubs, elected at a meeting last week, is William R. Morgan '27 of Utica. He fills the vacancy left by the resignation of Kenneth M. Young '27 of Providence, who has graduated and left.

THE NEW DIPLOMACY was the subject of a talk before the Saturday Lunch Club last week. The speaker was Col. A. G. Alley, secretary of the League of Nations Non-Partisan Association.

SIGMA DELTA CHI, at a dinner held in Willard Straight Hall on March 1, initiated into membership Laurence B. June '19 of Ithaca, Leland P. Ham '26 of Millbrook, Harry L. Case '29 of Landsdowne, Pa., and Colin A. Miller '29 of Oak Park, Ill. Professor J. O. Simmons, director of the journalism course in Syracuse University, and Professor Bristow Adams addressed the members. Leland Ham spoke in behalf of the initiates.

PHI GAMMA DELTA won the interfraternity hockey championship for the year by defeating Sigma Phi 2-0 in the final game. The members of the winning team were John S. Fair, Jr., '27 of Llanerch, Pa., William Y. Naill '27 of Hanover, Pa., Raymond D. Angel '27 of Edgemere, Pa., Frank H. Mueller '27 of Decatur, Ill., Millard S. Moore '29 of Bronxville, and Hans V. Grohmann '27 of Demarest, N. Y. Twenty teams played in the league.

THE SAGE CHAPEL Preacher on March 6 was Professor Rufus M. Jones, Ph. D., professor of philosophy at Haverford College.

LECTURES in the "Science and Life" series last week included "Geologic Processes and Geologic Time" by Professor Oscar D. von Engel'n '08 on March 2, and "The Emergence of Life" by Professor James G. Needham, Ph.D. '98.

THE WILLARD STRAIGHT Sunday Evening talk on March 6 was on "Unexplained Marvels of Ancient Engineering." It was given by Professor Eugene P. Andrews '95.

A POULTRY AND EGG marketing school was held at Cornell on March 2, 3, and 4, with some two hundred poultrymen attending. Professor Flora Rose, who has made a study of these articles of food from the barnyard to the dining-table, and Dr. H. D. Phillips, director of the Bureau of Markets of the Department of Agriculture and Markets at Albany, were among those addressing the school.

BILLIARDS IS THE NEWEST sport in the local arena. Next week the Board of Managers of Willard Straight Hall will start two tournaments for the University championship in billiards and pocket billiards, open to all undergraduates. A suitable trophy will go to the winner, and it is hoped that the tournament will develop such interest that matches may later be played with these famous players down at the Town and Gown Club.

ROD AND BOB, the Civil Engineering honorary society, has elected Professor Ernest W. Schoder '03 a Faculty member, and Earl G. Bristol '28 of Oceanside and William N. Young '28 of Rochester, student members.

MEMBERS OF THE BOARDS of The Harvard Crimson, The Cornell Daily Sun, The Daily Princetonian, and The Dartmouth have formed an association which will meet several times a year to discuss problems common to all, its members believe it will work for good will amongst them.

HARVARD COLLEGE has adopted a policy of fewer hours of teaching. From the Christmas recess until the mid-year examination period, and again for about three and one-half weeks before the final examination period, lectures and other classroom exercises will cease in many courses and only seniors will be tutored. The Faculty in voting this change has registered its belief that the teaching staff has too much to do, and that the students will profit by less instruction and more of independent study.

Army-Navy

Committees Report Contributions Totaling $8,000 to Funds for Cloister Entrances

Cornell men who served in the armed forces during the World War have made considerable progress toward raising sufficient funds for the entrances to the Cloister which will represent their memorial to their comrades-in-arms who made the supreme sacrifice.

Each of the entries to be erected by the men of the Army and of the Navy will cost $15,000. Although the appeal for funds for these entries has been out only a short time, there has been subscribed for the Army memorial $4,113. During the same time the Navy men have raised $4,335.

Army

The following have contributed for the Army entry:

Winthrop Ingersoll, Henry Whittier Porter '17, Edwin Gerald Hansen '10, Samuel L. Althouse '20, George L. Coleman '95, Edward C. Kerr '12, Willis E. Bowen '02, Oswald D. Reich '12, Raymond T. Beals '05, Van Breed Hart '16.

Robert E. Treman '09, chairman of the War Memorial Committee, is addressing a personal letter to all of the Cornell men who served in the War and who have not yet contributed to the Memorial. It is hoped that the money for these entries can be raised quickly so that the actual work of erecting the Towers and Cloister may begin as soon as the architect's plans are completed.

GRADUATE DEGREES

At a meeting of the Faculty of the Graduate School held on March 4 the following were recommended for graduate degrees:

A.M.: Chilson Hathaway Leonard '23, Sven Axel Nilson.

M.S.: Rollin Hayes Barrett, Leon Evans Bowe, Alfred Mullikin Boyce '26, Kyuin-Wei Kao '26, Gladys Marie Kensler, Roberto Moreno y de Santos '25, Willem Jacobus Pretorius.

M.C.E.: Doo-Yee Sung.

Ph.D.: Felipe Tionson Adriano, Harry Benjamin Alger '14, Leo Behr '18, Clement L. Benson, Yan Tsz Chiu, Joy Pleasant Guilford, Charles Sumner Gwynne '07, Caro Lynn, Michel George Malti, Chia Lin Shao, Lloyd Raymond Watson, Mary Louisa Willard, Catharine Elizabeth Young, A.M. '23.

SPORT STUFF

The chief end of sport is fun.

The doctrine is now preached that to achieve fun sport must be conducted in a spirit of pallid dilettantism and that preparation for contests should stop short of mortification of the flesh and the stern suppression of individual caprice.

But where is ultimate fun to be found? Certainly not in losing games to lesser men through lack of effort in preparation.

Joy comes to the oarsman on that day when, as the reward of endless drill, the shell becomes a leaping, living thing. His agony of the body is itself pure joy in the last victorious spurt.

The fun of football comes at that moment when you realize the drudgery has not been in vain, that the plays are working for consecutive gains and that an alert, coordinated defense is stopping the opposition dead in its tracks.

The ultimate joy of distance running comes when you meet the challenge on the back stretch and you find that all those weary miles on the Ithaca hills have given you the extra ounce of stamina that is going to bring you home a champion.

The chief end of sport is fun. It is wise—and good form—to cultivate a pose of casualness off the field. But when the whistle blows for contest or practice there is no place for casualness on a varsity squad.

When a man becomes a candidate for a team he ceases to be a free agent and becomes the representative of his college. For that honor he must pay the price in self-sacrifice, loss of individuality, and sustained effort. And his ultimate joy comes with the discovery that he has not paid the price in vain. He will find no lasting pleasure in making a frivolous, effortless, shirking romp of practice.

(Prolonged cheering on the part of old grads. General snapping of patent cigar lighters among undergraduates mingled with scattered cries of "Apple Sauce.")

'17 REUNION COMMITTEE

The Ten Year Reunion, so far as the men are concerned, will be in charge of the following six '17 men: Edward E. Anderson, Herbert Ballantine, Ivon H. Budd, William D. Crim, Arthur W. Mellon, Jr., and Charles Ramsey. Working with them will be the secretary of the class, Donald B. Vail.

A larger committee, of about one hundred members, is being appointed to cover the whole United States.

The committee has determined upon a costume designed after the French Foreign Legion, such as was used in the motion picture of "Beau Geste."

1910's Fund for Memorial

$7,500 Raised by That Class Allocated by Trustees Committee for Double Room in Tower

The War Memorial Fund took a spurt this week as a result of action at a meeting of the Administration Committee of the Board of Trustees on March 5. The committee voted to allocate $7,500 of the memorial funds raised in 1920 by the class of 1910, for the purpose of providing a double room in the Memorial Towers as a tribute to seven members of the class of 1910, who lost their lives in the World War.

Andrew J. Whinery '10, secretary of the Class, who was active in the establishment of the class fund several years ago, is pleased that 1910 is thus the first class to make full payment for its share in Cornell's War Memorial.

A bronze tablet to be placed in the 1910 Memorial Room, will have inscribed on it the names and records of the following men of 1910 who made the supreme sacrifice:

Frank Findlay Hanbidge, Roger Wolcott Hitchcock, Daniel Joseph Meskill, Norwood Macleod, Hunter McClure, Jefferson Davis Vincent, Edgar Montgomery Whitlock.

THIRD 1912 GAZETTE OUT

The War Memorial Number of The On-To-Ithaca Gazette was mailed to members of the Class of 1912 this week by the secretary, Ross W. Kellogg of Ithaca. The Gazette continues to grow. It started in December with four pages and was increased to six pages for the issue of January 15. The War Memorial Number consists of eight pages, half of which are devoted to the effort of the Class to raise $5,000 for a room in the War Memorial.

A letter from President Farrand complimenting the Class on being the first class to underwrite the cost of a room in the War Memorial and extending a welcome to Cornell for the Fifteen-Year Reunion is a page-one feature. The War Memorial material includes a double-page spread, showing two views of the memorial towers and cloister and a page devoted to brief biographies of the ten members of the class who lost their lives in the War.

Secretary Kellogg compliments his classmates on their prompt response to his request for dues. Nearly 150 of the members sent in checks for five dollars each in less than two months.

Considerable space is given over to news of the women of the Class. Mrs. Anne Bullivant Pfeiffer contributes a letter of greeting from the women. She is chairman of the women's reunion committee. With her are associated the class secretary for women, Nina Smith, and Anna Hunn.

It is reported in the Gazette that the district rooters in nearly every one of the large cities is active, arrangements being made to hold class dinners in many cities on the evening of March 15 at which time the New York City members will hold their get-together at Alaire's Restaurant on Third Avenue and Seventeenth Street.

PHYSICS PAPERS

At the joint meeting of the American Physical Society and the Optical Society of America at Columbia on February 26-7 the following papers were read by Cornellians: "Purity and Saturation: a Saturation Scale for Yellow" by Deane B. Judd, Ph.D. '26; "The Phenomenon of Broca and Sulzer in Foveal Vision as Dependent Upon Wave Length and Intensity" by Walter H. Stainton '20; "A Comparison of Three Methods of Spectrophotometry of Weak Light" by Lauriston Taylor '26; "The Empiric Relation Between Dominant Wavelength and Purity" by Deane B. Judd; "The Extension of the Classical Laws of Optics into the X-Ray Region of the Spectrum," an invited paper by Professor Floyd K. Richtmyer '06; "A System of Structures for Atomic Nuclei" by Warren W. Nicholas, National Research Fellow; "The Potential of Photoactive Cells Containing Fluorescent Electrolytes" by Howard W. Russell '26; "The Periodicity of Photoelectric Thresholds" by George B. Welch, Grad.; "Multiplets in the Spectra of Vanadium (III)" by Professor Roswell C. Gibbs '06 and Harvey E. White, Grad.; "Further Test of the Theories of Absorption of X-Rays" by Professor Floyd K. Richtmyer and Lauriston S. Taylor; "A Type of Oscillation Hysteresis" by Lauriston Taylor; "Thermal Conductivity of Fused Quartz as a Function of Temperature" by Herman E. Seeman. Abstracts of all these papers appeared in the Bulletin of the American Physical Society for February 12.

Will of J. Norris Oliphant '01 Makes University and Sigma Phi Residuary Legatees

The will of J. Norris Oliphant '01, who died in New York on January 22, contains a provision which will eventually give Cornell about $150,000, it is estimated. The will has been filed in the surrogate's office.

The University's share is one-half of the residuary estate after certain personal bequests are satisfied. The other half, under the will, is to go to the Epsilon Chapter of Sigma Phi at Cornell, of which Mr. Oliphant was a member.

Both these bequests are subject to a life interest of his uncle, William J. Oliphant, and his aunt, Mrs. Emma J. Morse. The will creates a trust and directs the trustee to pay one-half of the income to each of them while they both live and the entire income to the survivor while he or she shall live. Upon the termination of this life interest the principal of the trust fund is to be given in equal shares to the University and the Chapter. The bequest to the University is made without any condition or restriction as to how the fund shall be used.

Mr. Oliphant was a member of the New York Stock Exchange and belonged to the brokerage house of James H. Oliphant & Co., which his father founded and which he joined soon after his graduation from Sibley College in 1901.

THOMAS LIVINGSTON BAYNE, JR., of the Department of Rural Education, will teach this summer in the University of Michigan.

A NEW CHAPTER HOUSE FOR SEAL AND SERPENT

This latest addition to the fraternity houses situated across the gorge is now under construction on Thurston Avenue opposite Phi Kappa Psi. The house was designed by O. H. Waltz, architect of Ithaca; architect's sketch by A. E. Millikin '24.

Alumni Fund Appeal

Class Representatives Send Out Letters Urging Participation—Table Shows Standing To Date

Class representatives of the Cornellian Council have completed the mailing of individual letters to members of their classes urging participation in the Alumni Fund. It is hoped that their appeal will meet with a ready response.

Harold Flack '12, executive secretary of the Cornellian Council, has made a study of the amounts contributed by classes and, in cooperation with leaders of the classes, has arrived at quotas which will form the basis of the competition between the classes.

While one of the objectives of the various class representatives will be to reach the money quota, their main objective will be to secure a larger number of subscribers to the Alumni Fund. It is felt that by obtaining a wider participation in the Fund, much benefit will be derived, not only through the funds thus obtained, but by the increased interest of the Alumni in the University. Secretary Flack has compiled the following table.

It is the hope of the Council that sufficient funds will be obtained to make possible the carrying on of necessary University functions.

THE COLLEGE WORLD

A BRYN MAWR committee has published some statistics about the graduate women of Bryn Mawr. 1088 women have studied for a year or more in the Graduate School. Of these 246 have gone into college teaching, 28 into college administration work, 226 into school teaching, 32 into school administration work, 73 into social work, 97 into medicine, law, and other professions, 44 into business, 8 into miscellaneous kinds of work, 59 class themselves as still students, 103 have no paid position, and 172 have married and discontinued their research work. As to salaries, 8.7 per cent are getting between $1,500 and $2,000, 23.3 per cent between $2,000 and $2,500, 21.3 per cent between $2,500 and $3,000, 18.5 per cent between $3,000 and $3,500, 10.7 per cent between $3,500 and $4,000, 7.8 per cent between $4,000 and $4,500, and only 5.8 per cent between $5,000 and $6,000. That is, about one-half are earning less than $3,000. The total number of those who have married is 306. Of these 134 have continued their scholarly careers, at least intermittently. 234 have borne 533 children. 237 took their first degree at Bryn Mawr and of the rest 462 came from American coeducational colleges, 239 from women's colleges, 37 from Canadian coeducational colleges, and

The quotas assigned to each class have been based on the total contributions to the Alumni Fund for the fiscal year 1925-26 plus twenty per cent, with the exception of the classes 1869-1870, 1911 and 1924, where for special reasons, the quotas have been computed on a different basis. In computing the quotas for the classes, all special gifts of $1000 or more contributed for specified purposes have been eliminated.

ATHLETICS

Track Team Does Well

The track team showed unlooked for strength in the Indoor Intercollegiate. Harvard won the championship in the annual games in New York Saturday, and Cornell was a close second. The Yale team, which meets Cornell in an indoor meet in the Drill Hall Saturday night, was third. The standing of the teams was: Harvard 23 3/7, Cornell 21 2/7, Yale 20 1/2, Penn State 19, Pennsylvania 13 3/7, Dartmouth 13 3/7, Georgetown 11 3/7, Boston College 9, Princeton 8 1/2, Syracuse 5, Columbia 4, Bowdoin 3, Holy Cross 3, Brown 3, Union 3, Colby 2, Colgate 1.

Two first places were captured by the Cornellians. Horace Benson, Cornell sophomore, won the two-mile run, and is now the intercollegiate indoor champion in that event, while Norwood G. Wright, a Cornell junior, won first place in the 36-pound weight throw.

Wright hurled the ball 51 feet 1/2 inch, the best performance of his career. Cohen, Cornell, came third, with a throw of 48 feet 3 1/2 inches. Wright's victory is the first any Cornellian has won in this event. In the shot-put John F. Anderson, another Cornell sophomore, got third place, with a throw of 44 feet 6 1/2 inches. This is Anderson's first year at shot putting, and he has been developing steadily.

Benson's victory in the two-mile run was a brilliant performance. Cox of Penn State, who had previously won the mile, set the pace, and after seven laps began to reduce his speed apparently to save his strength. But Reid of Harvard passed him, followed by his team mate Flacksman. As they came into the final lap Benson who had been in sixth place passed man after man until he led the pack. Briggs of Yale challenged on the final lap, but Benson uncorked a fine spurt and won by twenty yards in 9 min. 37 sec.

The mile relay team finished fourth to Syracuse, Georgetown and Holy Cross; Vollmer, Cornell, tied with two others for third place in the high jump; and Reed, Pittman, and Williams of Cornell tied with four others for fourth place in the pole vault at a height of 12 feet. The freshman medley relay team got fourth.

Wrestlers Defeat State

The wrestling team made it four straight Saturday, defeating Penn State in the Drill Hall by a score of 12 to 9. This was the hardest and most interesting meet of the season. Every bout was closely contested and the issue was not settled until the last bout, when Munns of Cornell defeated Garrison. Not a fall was scored by either team. Penn State started off by taking the first two bouts on decisions. Schroeder broke in with a Cornell victory and Geier evened the score. State and Cornell then each won a bout and then came the decisive match. The summary:

115-Pound Class: Captain Kaiser, Penn State, defeated Josefson on decision. Time advantage, 5 min. 43 sec.

125-Pound Class: Leggett, Penn State, defeated Holsman on decision. Time advantage, 1 min. 36 sec.

135-Pound Class: Schroeder, Cornell, defeated J. Long on decision. Time advantage, 0 min. 21 sec. in two extra periods.

145-Pound Class: Captain Geier, Cornell, defeated Ace on decision. Time advantage, 9 min. 51 sec.

158-Pound Class: Packard, Penn State, defeated Roess on decision. Time advantage, 8 min. 46 sec.

175-Pound Class: Stafford, Cornell, defeated Hollobaugh on decision. Time advantage, 2 min. 09 sec.

Heavyweight Class: Munns, Cornell, defeated Garrison on decision. Time advantage, 5 min. 47 sec.

Rowing and Track Schedules

Varsity rowing and track schedules have been announced by the Athletic Association. The rowing list is like last year's, but the track schedule contains one more dual meet than the 1926 list. The new engagement is with Princeton, on May 21, at Ithaca. The schedules follow:

Crew

May 21—Carnegie Cup, Princeton, Yale, and Cornell on Lake Carnegie, Princeton, N. J. Varsity and freshman eights will participate.

May 28—Cornell and Harvard varsity, junior varsity, and freshman races.

June 29—Intercollegiate races at Poughkeepsie.

Track

April 29-30—Pennsylvania relays, Philadelphia.

May 7—M. I. T. at Ithaca.

May 14—Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.

May 21—Princeton at Ithaca.

May 27-28—Intercollegiate at Philadelphia.

Dartmouth Turns Tables

After a spectacular spurt, which carried it to from the bottom to the halfway point in the Intercollegiate League race, the basketball team slumped. It was beaten by Colgate at Ithaca last Wednesday in a non-league game, and lost a league match to Dartmouth at Hanover last Saturday. The team has one more game to play, a league match with Yale at New Haven on Saturday. This is the last week of league play, and Princeton is considered to have the best chance for the championship.

Fouls proved costly in the Dartmouth game. The Green's shooting was much more accurate than Cornell's. In the first fifteen minutes of play Dartmouth made nine points from the foul line while Cornell scored but two. As a consequence Dartmouth led through the first half, and at half time the score was 17 to 10. The Green increased its lead in the early stages of the second half and though Cornell rallied and cut the margin down to five points, a final spurt by Dartmouth clinched victory. Cornell did not play as aggressively, nor with as smooth team work as in recent games at Ithaca. Picken and Langdell were conspicuous for Dartmouth; Deveau, Schlossbach, Beck for Cornell.

The line-up and summary:

Dartmouth (30)	Cornell (20)
Picken, Capt. R.F.	Schlossbach
Rassles. L.F.	Molinet
Langdell. C.	Winkler, Capt.
Austin. R.G.	Deveau
Spaeth. L.G.	Beck

Field Goals—Dartmouth: Picken 3, Langdell 3, Ellis 2, Spaeth. Cornell: Schlossbach 2, Deveau 2, Beck, Winkler. Foul Goals—Dartmouth: Picken 5, Ellis 2, Langdell, Hein, Heep, Spaeth.

Substitutions—Dartmouth: Hein for Langdell, Heep for Spaeth, Ellis for Austin. Cornell: Bruckert for Winkler, Winkler for Bruckert, Masten for Winkler.

Colgate Wins

Against Colgate Cornell played differently. The team was unable to break through Colgate's five-man defense and such baskets as Cornell shot were long throws from the floor. Colgate led at half time and was never headed.

The line-up and summary:

Colgate (35)	Cornell (15)
Clark, Capt. R.F.	Molinet
Makholm. L.F.	Schlossbach
Bollermann. C.	Winkler, Capt.
Walsh. R.G.	Deveau
Kennedy. L.G.	Beck

Field Goals—Colgate: Bollerman 3, Kennedy 3, Walsh 2, Makholm, Clark, Hedemann. Cornell: Schlossbach, Molinet Beck. Foul Goals—Colgate: Kennedy 6 out of 8, Bollerman 4 out of 6, Clark 2 out of 2, Walsh 1 out of 3. Cornell: Winkler 5 out of 5, Schlossbach 2 out of 3, Deveau 1 out of 2, Layton 1 out of 1, Beck 0.

Substitutions—Colgate: Hedemann for Bollerman, Cook for Clark, Glenn for Makholm, Burton for Kennedy, Dumont for Walsh. Cornell: Masten for Schlossbach, Layton for Molinet, Schlossbach for Masten, Molinet for Masten, Molinet for Layton, Masten for Deveau, Deveau for Beck, Layton for Masten, Beck for Molinet, Gersten for Layton, Merine for Schlossbach, Freeborn for Winkler, Winkler for Freeborn.

Other Sports

Lehigh's freshman wrestling team defeated the Cornell yearlings at South Bethlehem Saturday by a score of 19 to 6. The freshman basketball team fared no better. They were beaten by the Rochester yearlings in the Drill Hall 41 to 23. And the freshman swimmers lost out in a match with Syracuse at Syracuse. The score was 36 to 26.

The fencing team met its first defeat of the season Saturday, losing to Pennsylvania at Philadelphia. The score was 9 to 8.

THE OLIPHANT BEQUEST

OCCASIONALLY we become aware of the fact that Cornell is a comparatively young university. Only a small minority of its alumni have died. The classes now living on "borrowed time" were small in comparison with the present-day classes. These phenomena are common to nearly all the Land Grant colleges, nearly all the women's colleges, and many others that need not be grouped except as colleges founded since the Civil War.

These conditions will persist until after a university ceases to expand its enrollment. Perhaps forty-five years after this occurs, the annual toll taken of the alumni by death will about equal the annual matriculation figures. At Cornell this should take place in about thirty years. Before 1960 we must face the many problems that this condition will create, when the outlook of the alumni office, the alumni fund, and the alumni publication will be wholly altered by the annual loss of about twenty-four hundred alumni a year, or fifty a week, in perpetuity.

In the meanwhile, although the full force of this condition is not to be felt for three decades, Cornell will shortly begin to experience its relentless power, so that ten years hence the losses will be noticeably more frequent than at present, with an increase that parallels the growth of the university as it was forty or fifty years earlier.

Among the pioneers in foreseeing the importance of replacing in some tangible way on his death the interest in his university that he had while he was living, was J. Norris Oliphant '01. Oliphant's recent bequest testifies to a life-long devotion to the university. A universal appreciation of the principle of providing for Cornell when the alumnus has no further use for funds, will eventually meet her every need in a way that will dwarf the results of drives for endowments and alumni funds into comparative insignificance.

A committee of Cornell lawyers is already at work to render service in preparing wills to provide such bequests. It is under the leadership of Neal D. Becker '05, and should eventually become the most successful of Cornellian Council committees. It cannot prevent the loss of alumni to the university, but it can assist in replacing their living interest with funds that are no longer needed.

CORNELLIANS AT HARVARD

The Editor, THE CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS:

In a recent copy of the ALUMNI NEWS appeared a communication stating that seven Cornell men were enrolled in the first year of the Harvard Business School. The full number of Cornellians in that school, as given in the current catalogue, is thirteen. It may be of interest to add that sixty Cornell men are recorded among the students in the various graduate schools of the University. The Law School leads, with 21 Cornellians, a department in which men from Cornell have gained high honor. In the Medical School there are 10, in the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences there are 9, the remainder being distributed among the Schools of Theology, of Public Health, of Education, and of Biology. The Theological School has attracted only one Cornellian this year, and but one Yale graduate, two from Princeton, and four from Dartmouth; while in the Law School are 105 Princetonians, 58 from Yale, and 51 from Dartmouth. Harvard has 282 in the Law School out of 1445, and 12 in the Theological School out of 116 in attendance. These two schools illustrate the comparative vogue of their respective subjects. In the Graduate Schools Harvard Bachelors form only a minority.

An examination of the Harvard catalogue thus demonstrates the national character of the Graduate Schools, a feature which, while uniting into a friendly group a large body of serious-minded students assembled from the whole nation, preserves the institution from any narrow sectionalism.

THE CLUBS

New York Women

The regular monthly meeting of the Cornell Women's Club of New York will be held at the Allerton House, Fifty-seventh Street and Lexington Avenue, Saturday, March 19 at 2:30 p. m. President Farrand will speak. The meeting coming so near St. Patrick's Day the entertainment will consist of the singing of a group of Irish songs by a famous baritone. St. Patrick's Day favors will be provided and refreshments carrying out the holiday scheme will be served. All Cornell women, resident or visitors in the metropolitan area, are invited to attend.

Washington

About 250 Cornellians and their friends attended the annual dance and card party given by the Cornell Club of Washington on February 24 at 2400 Sixteenth Street. Among these were many of Washington's prominent people both in social and scientific circles. Members of the Cornell Club who assisted Miss Ruth E. K. Peterson '18 in making the party a success were Miss Abbie S. Tingley '19, Miss Jean Stephenson '17, Miss Grace E. Anderson '25, Mrs. Raleigh Gilchrist (Elizabeth H. Reigart) '19, John P. Mutchler '22, Sheridan D. Biggs '24, David Herrman '17, Leo Quackenbush '23, William A. Zalesak '24, Ernest Kelly '06, with Sam Rosey '15 in charge of the music. The floor committee was William M. Aitchison '11 and Goodwin D. Ellsworth, Jr., '10.

Ithaca Women

The Cornell Women's Club of Ithaca held a dinner meeting at Willard Straight Hall on February 14. Mrs. Walter H. Stainton (Anne Arnold) '18, vice-president, presided at the business meeting following the dinner. The presidency was left

An Open Letter to Reunion Classes

In less than three months it will be JUNE IN ITHACA.

Several thousand Cornellians will be hitting the trail back HOME.

Block Week will be over. The Shock Troops of the Department of Chambermaiding will hurry the boys out of Baker and Cascadilla and the girls out of Sage and Prudence Risley to make room for the returning Alumni.

The vacuum cleaner will be run over countless Pullmans in preparation for the hegira from New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Chicago and other cities. The business of the country will be at a standstill on June 10, 11 and 12. Even the Stock Exchange will be closed for half this period.

And in Ithaca in June, old friends will meet again—many for the first time since graduation. There will be the pleasure of calling on the teachers who years ago showed us so much tolerance, of climbing the Library Tower for a bird's-eye view of Ezra's Empire, and of spending a few minutes in the impressive silences of Sage Chapel.

Then the lively baseball games on Hoy Field with the classes arrayed in clothing that would make Joseph's famous coat look as sombre as the black broadcloth on an undertaker's assistant.

And after the sun sets in the notch in West Hill and the gentle land breezes rustle by in their hurry to reach Cayuga, and after the Senior-Alumni Singing on the steps of Goldwin Smith with the soft sod of the Old Quadrangle soothing your tired feet, you will go back to Baker, or Cascadilla, or Prudence Risley, or Sage, and sing tenor or what have you in the moonlight and be an undergrad again—young, carefree, boastful, happy.

This is all possible because of the great common denominator which stirs in the breasts of all of us—our undying love for Cornell.

Come back often but don't fail to come back to Ithaca in June.

Mrs. R. Warren Sailor (Queenie Horton) '09 gave her report as the Club delegate to the seventh annual convention of the Cornell Alumni Corporation held in Philadelphia in November. As chairman of the Alumni Trustee campaign for Dr. Mary M. Crawford '04, Mrs. Sailor outlined the plans and asked for the cooperation of the members of the club.

Miss Ruth Davis '17, secretary read a letter from Dr. Crawford, women's chairman of the Cornell War Memorial Fund, appealing to the Club to raise its quota toward the $15,000 entry to be provided by Cornell. Miss Grace H. Griswold '20 announced that the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs and Sigma Delta Epsilon, graduate women's fraternity, will extend an invitation to the representatives of the Association to Aid Scientific Research by Women to meet in Ithaca in April, 1928.

The executive committee appointed Miss Mary K. Hoyt '20 president of the club for the remainder of the year.

Cleveland

The Cornell Club of Cleveland has moved its headquarters again. From the University Club, the Cornell Club has gone down town, as in former years, and now holds its regular Thursday luncheons in the solarium on the roof of the new Allerton Hotel. The change has justified itself in the increased attendance.

On February 3 about eighty-five gathered to speed up the membership campaign that the Club is sponsoring for the Citizens' League of Cleveland. The meeting was addressed by Judge Lee Skeel of the Municipal Bench of Cleveland, who presides over the local Traffic Court.

Elizabethan Court Plays

Plays and Masques at Court During the Reigns of Elizabeth, James and Charles. By Mary Susan Steele '16, A. M. '19, Ph.D. '24. Professor of English in Judson College. New Haven. Yale University Press. 1926. 24.5 cm. pp. xvi, 300. Cornell Studies in English 10.

This is an important work for the history of the drama. Not since Fleay's "Chronicle History of the English Drama," published in 1892, has an attempt been made to compile a list of court plays and masques for the period 1558-1642. Fleay is now incomplete and no longer trustworthy, while more recent workers like Murray, Charles Wallace, and Chambers have produced lists for only a part of the period. Here, then, we have the first systematic attempt in thirty-five years to make a list of plays and masques presented either at court or on royal progresses before the sovereigns and other members of the royal family.

The materials have been drawn from two sources: (1) official records of court performances found in office books of the Master of the Revels and in payments to actors, and (2) contemporary allusions found in letters, memoirs, diaries, with some information gleaned from title-pages, prologues, and epilogues.

How many plays are known to have been presented before royalty? Miss Steele's index of titles includes something like four hundred plays. A good many of the plays referred to, moreover, are now nameless. It takes 130 pages to list the plays dating from Elizabeth's reign, 1558-1603; 96 pages for the reign of James, 1603-25; and 53 pages for the reign of Charles, 1625-42.

How much was the reward of the actors in these performances? Commonly the payment to the actors was ten pounds or possibly the equivalent of $400 to-day; though for many plays only two-thirds of this amount was given. On the other hand, rarely the amount was 16 pounds, 13 shillings, 4 pence; and in very extreme cases twenty or even thirty pounds.

We congratulate Miss Steele on the completion of this substantial labor, which will not have to be done over for a great many years. It is a fine contribution to scholarship.

OBITUARIES

George B. Preston '88

George Burton Preston died in Leonia, New Jersey, on February 9.

He was born on February 20, 1866, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Preston. He prepared at Corning, N. Y., and entered Cornell in 1884, receiving the degree of M. E. in 1888. He was a member of the Glee Club, the Students' Guild, the Mechanical Engineering Association, and the C. U. C. A. In 1896 he received his M. M. E. degree. From 1891 to 1899 he was an instructor in experimental engineering in Sibley College.

Recently he had been a consulting engineer with E. L. Phillips and Company in New York. Before that time he was with Westinghouse, Church, Kerr, and Co.

He is survived by his wife, Margaret Preston.

Mortimer E. Wile '99

Mortimer Emanuel Wile died in Rochester on February 20, after a short illness.

He was born in Rochester October 22, 1878, the son of Isaac and Carrie Hays Wile.

He received his preparatory education in the Rochester High School, entering Cornell in 1895. He graduated in 1899 with the degree of B. L. He was a member of the Class Day Committee.

On leaving Cornell Wile became associated with the Security Trust Company of Rochester, and held the office of treasurer when, three years ago, he resigned to become president of the Gillis Company. He was active in many civic enterprises.

Wile is survived by his mother and three brothers, Herbert, Harold, and Stanley Wile.

Ansel H. Phinney '73

Ansel Harvey Phinney died on December 29 at St. Petersburg, Fla., where he had made his home for several years.

He was born in Hinckley, Ohio, on September 29, 1850, the son of Harvey and Eliza Carter Phinney. In 1870 he received his B. S. from the Michigan Agricultural College, and in 1871 his M. S. from the same institution. He entered Cornell in September, 1871, and received his Ph. D. in 1873. He was the second person to receive the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from Cornell.

Before his retirement from business several years ago he had been a builder in Detroit, and previous to that had been president of the State Savings Bank in Turner, Mich. He was much interested in the history of Florida, was an active member of the State and local historical societies, and had published a number of articles on the subject.

He is survived by a son, James H. Phinney, and a daughter, Mary Roe Phinney.

John L. Henderson '73

John Leland Henderson died on February 14 near Olympia, Washington.

He was born in Boston, Mass., on September 11, 1851. He entered Cornell in 1869, taking agriculture, and remained a year. For a number of years he lived in Olympia, going there after leaving Cornell as a teacher in the town's only school at that time. He was active in Western pioneer affairs.

He is survived by his brother, Louis F. Henderson '74, a professor at the University of Oregon, his sons, Leland J., Louis A., Edwin A., Sidney E., Robert L., and Eliot W. Henderson, and a daughter, Mrs. Faith H. Rueppell.

J. Leo Collins '12

James Leo Collins died on February 11 in Pittsburgh of cerebrospinal meningitis, with which he had been stricken three days previously.

He graduated from Pittsburgh Academy and entered Cornell in 1908, receiving the degree of A. B. in 1912. He was heavy-weight intercollegiate wrestling champion in his senior year, and captain of the team. He played freshman and varsity football and was on the track team in the weight events. He was a member of Janus and Sphinx Head.

He was admitted to the Pennsylvania Bar in 1916, and at the time of his death held the offices of deputy auditor-general and solicitor for the boroughs of Swissvale and East Pittsburgh.

In the War Collins won a captain's commission at Fort Oglethorpe and went overseas with the 371st Infantry with which he saw service in the Verdun, Argonne, and Champagne drives. On his return he became State commander of the American Legion and was a member of the national committee of the Legion.

He was buried with military honors, and at the time of his funeral business houses in East Pittsburgh, his former home and where he was a founder of the first Legion post in Pennsylvania, were closed for ten minutes.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Gertrude McCoy Collins, his father, James H. Collins, a brother, Raymond Collins, and a sister, Bernadette Collins.

Fleming E. Jamieson, Jr., '23

Fleming Estep Jamieson, Jr., died in Pittsburgh on February 25.

He was born in Pittsburgh on October 29, 1900, the son of Fleming E. and Helen Childs Jamieson.

He entered Cornell in 1919 and graduated with the degree of M. E. in 1923. He was a member of Phi Sigma Kappa.

At the time of his death he was assistant superintendent in the Aliquippa works of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Company.

He is survived by his parents, a sister, Janet Atchison Jamieson, and two brothers, William Charles and John Alden Jamieson.

The Growing Appreciation of Our Debt

PERHAPS the saddest of all the sad things that came from the World War was the rapidity with which the average citizen forgot what he owes to the millions of young men who gave their lives or their health or their chances for success in the world to win the war and to save the world for democracy. When we know how completely this debt of ours has been ignored and forgotten, we cannot blame the returned soldier for being cynical and for wondering if the sacrifices of himself and his comrades were not all in vain.

Perhaps, though, our forgetfulness is only temporary, and in time we, or at least our posterity, will come to know and appreciate what the allied soldiers did for the world and for civilization. Already there are signs of a growing appreciation of our debt. All of the graduates of Cornell will be interested in knowing of the plans for adequate perpetuation of the names and deeds of Cornell's sons who gave themselves to the country in the great war. A war memorial at Ithaca is planned in the form of two beautiful tower units connected by a cloister to be erected on the campus. The names of all Cornell men who died in service will be engraved on tablets in this cloister.

Cornellians and others who wish to register in a material way their appreciation of these Cornell heroes have an opportunity to contribute towards the construction of the war memorial.

When young men seek your advice

THE alumnus is often looked to for advice, by undergraduates and by graduates who are trying to determine their proper place in the business world.

It is a responsibility which the conscientious individual, when called upon for such advice, is anxious to meet effectively. But it is difficult to feel sure in advising others about business concerning which one does not have first-hand knowledge.

The bond business comes up so often for consideration, the best advice you can give a young man who is considering this field is to urge him to look into it thoroughly before trying it. Help him, if you can, to analyze the requirements of the business and compare them with his qualifications.

One of the most important bits of advice you can give him is to carefully select the house he is going to work for. Recommend to him the houses whose counsel you would respect with regard to the investment of your own funds.

To make the bond business and its requirements better understood by college men, we have published a pamphlet, "The Bond Business As An Occupation for College Men." We shall be glad to send a copy upon request.

I Am Busy

WHY do you say that when a life insurance agent calls on you?

It may be true, but why are you busy? It is largely because you wish to make the future secure for yourself and your family.

But the John Hancock agent wishes to do the same thing for you. He does not come to add to your troubles but to lessen them. He has for his commodity the security of your future.

Perhaps the next John Hancock agent who calls on you can answer some of your problems. He has the training and deals in policies to fit the needs of yourself and your business.

Why Not See Him ?

A STRONG COMPANY, Over Sixty Years in Business. Liberal as to Contract, Safe and Secure in Every Way.

Shop by Mail

The new Agricultural Booklist is out

Former students frequently find that they can not get the quality of merchandise where they live which they bought in Ithaca. Students graduated since 1910 probably bought their supplies at the Coop. One of the large items in our mail order business is agricultural books. Many people from those who want a book on gardening, the city, or a book on home decoration, to a real farmer trying to improve himself and who has never been in Ithaca.

Do you want one of the booklists?

At $4.00 the sales have jumped

At this price the balance of the edition should go rather quickly. We do not mean in a day or two but compared to what has been sold. The Book of Views was a bargain at the original figure and even more so now. Beautiful pictures well printed and well bound. Have you ordered one?

Cornell Songbooks at $1.75

Keep yourself fresh on the Cornell songs and if you will be back in June there will be other songs to learn. The old crowd will sing the old song. The Cornell Songbook has a good assortment of other songs besides the Cornell songs. The $1.75 copies are well bound in cloth.
