Summer School

Our summer session will begin on July tenth and end with Regents examinations on August twentieth. This session affords a very satisfactory method of securing credits needed for admission to college in September or of making up deficiencies in one's high school course. Instruction may be continued after the session in preparation for college entrance examinations in September.

Our late date of opening permits of a real vacation before starting the work of summer school.

Cornell's Founding

Approval of Ezra Cornell's Plan Was Given by Harper's Weekly in April, 1865

Editorial comment on the proposal of Ezra Cornell to found Cornell University, first printed in Harper's Weekly for April 22, 1865, has been unearthed by Jeannette B. Cook '13 of Watervliet. An excerpt from the article in Harper's is reprinted below:

THE CORNELL UNIVERSITY

The tumultuous excitement of these closing days of the War has prevented attention to an act which, in the more tranquil times of the future, will be estimated with all the honor it deserves. Mr. Ezra Cornell, senator from the Twenty-fourth District, in this State, proposes to give five hundred thousand dollars immediately to found a university, worthy the name, at Ithaca. Mr. White, Senator from the Onondaga District, one of our most excellent scholars and most efficient public men, has introduced a bill into the Senate establishing the University, and appropriating to it the income of the sale of public lands granted to this State by Congress by the act of July, 1862.

The importance of Mr. Cornell's gift to all the higher interests of the State is so apparent that the Board of Regents appointed a committee to visit the People's College at Havana, to which the proceeds of the grant had been previously appropriated, for the purpose of ascertaining whether that college did now conform or was likely within the limited time of five years to conform to, the conditions of the grant. The committee visited the People's College, made a careful investigation of its condition through the testimony of its officers and neighboring friends, and reported that it did not now conform to the requirements of the law. They further submitted the testimony from which it could readily be inferred whether it was likely to conform to them within the time.

No candid man can read the testimony without seeing that there is no reason whatever to believe it can do so. The People's College is apparently a small institution with no other prospects than such as may arise from the fund under the Act of 1862. It consists of a college building and a hundred acres of land; furniture to the amount of a thousand dollars, and a library of two thousand volumes made up of Congressional documents, Pacific Railroad reports, and documents of the State of New York. It has no philosophical or chemical apparatus, nor shops, tools, machinery, nor fine buildings, farming implements or stock, although the expressed intention of the U. S. grant was the fostering of practical mechanics and agriculture. Instruction in the collegiate department has not begun, and there are about a hundred and fifty students in the preparatory school.

Whoever has the interests of the most generous education at heart cannot doubt that the union of the grant of the United States with the gift of Mr. Cornell will secure a foundation for a university worthy of the State; and that the advantage of one comprehensive, amply equipped institution is greater than that of a dozen smaller and staggering schools. In such a movement concentration is power. The character of a truly noble university attracts the most eminent men to its chairs, and they in turn attract the multitude of students. Who can estimate the value of Agassiz, for instance, to the University at Cambridge? Yet only an institution so liberally endowed could secure the services of a savant so eminent against the imperial competition of Europe. In every way the increase of resources increases the opportunity and the usefulness of a college, and we can see no public reason whatever in the interest of education, why the grant under the law of Congress should not be transferred to the Cornell University.

RHODES SCHOLAR ELECTIONS

The 1929 election of Rhodes scholars will be held on December 7, and Cornell students must file their applications with the secretary of the State Committee of Selection before October 19, according to President Frank Aydelotte of Swarthmore College, American secretary to the Rhodes Trustees. A scholarship entitles the holder to two years' study at Oxford. If, at the end of the second year, the scholar presents an approved plan for an additional year of study, the trustees will extend the scholarship for a third year.

Scholars elected December 7 will go to Oxford in October, 1930. Information and application blanks may be obtained from the secretary of the University or from President Aydelotte's office at Swarthmore College.

Cornell men who have held Rhodes scholarships are Warren E. Schutt '05, Russell H. Peters '20, Alexander B. Trowbridge, Jr., '20, Robert E. Burk '22, William D. P. Carey '23, George R. Pfann '24, and Eugene W. Goodwillie '27. Edwin R. Casady, Jr., Grad., will go to Oxford in October, 1929.

Injured Improve

Members of Baseball Squad Hurt in Accident Recovering Steadily—Haddock Returns

Recovery of members of the baseball squad injured in the autobus crash near Quantico, Va., on April 4 seems assured. John D. Russell '29 of Ben Avon, Pa., manager of the team, will be confined to the Quantico Naval Hospital for at least two months. He suffered a compound fracture of the leg and minor injuries.

John Haddock, battery coach, returned to Ithaca April 8, and has resumed his coaching duties, although his fractured shoulder is still heavily bandaged. He returned from the Quantico Hospital, where he was taken after the crash.

The return of Frank Sheehan, veteran trainer, who was taken to the Washington Emergency Hospital after the crash, is expected soon. Sheehan suffered a broken arm. The first fear that he had received a fractured skull was removed by a complete examination.

The rest of the squad returned to Ithaca April 7, many of the men suffering minor cuts and bruises. Practice sessions, however, were not called off, and the team went to Columbus, Ohio, for its game on April 13 with Ohio State University.

Further details of the accident were learned on the team's return to Ithaca. The autobus, owned by a Washington transportation company, was scheduled to arrive at Quantico about six o'clock to take the squad to Washington, where on the following day the team was to meet Georgetown University.

The bus was late in arriving, and the driver put on speed to make up for lost time, and to get the squad over the thirty-four-mile trip to Washington. It had rained that day, and the roads were slippery.

The bus, going off the road, crashed into a tree. It was badly damaged, but the opinion was expressed by members of the squad that the sturdy construction of the machine saved many from more serious injury. The bus was a new brand, only recently installed in service.

GARGOYLE, honorary society of the College of Architecture, has elected to membership John M. Billings '30, North Manchester, Ind.; George C. Bebb '31, Newark; Richard C. Guthridge '30, Springfield, Mass.; Lawrence B. Perkins '30, Evanston, Ill.; and Thaddeus B. Hurd '27, Clyde, Ohio.

ATHLETICS

Ohio State Wins

The baseball team opened the regular season at Columbus, Ohio, April 13 by losing, 4 to 1, to Ohio State. Boies, who won two victories during the Southern trip, suffered his first defeat on the mound. He allowed seven hits, the same number given by his opponent, Kermode, but Ohio State succeeded in bunching its hits in the early innings.

Cornell scored its lone tally in the first inning when Hebert singled, went to second on an infield out, reached third on a balk, and scored on an error by Riehl, Ohio State shortstop.

Ohio State got two runs in the first. Hess singled, Widdiefield sacrificed, and Riedhl was hit by a pitched ball. Both runners scored on Genger's single.

Felser scored Ohio State's third run in the second inning on his own single and two sacrifices, the second being a long fly. Two more sacrifices in the eighth inning scored Kermode who started the frame by getting a single.

Maryland Wins at Lacrosse

The University of Maryland lacrosse team defeated Cornell in the opening game of the season on Upper Alumni Field on April 13, 11 to 1. The visitors scored three goals in the first half before Fairfax, Cornell first attack, slipped in the only Red and White tally of the game.

The Cornell defense was no match for the visitor's attack in the second half, and Maryland scored eight goals, six of them by Evans and Holloway.

A muddy field hampered both teams. The line-ups:

Athletic Survey Meeting

Alumni Corporation Committee Hold
Two-Day Session Here—More
Meetings Scheduled

No definite conclusions on the athletic situation, now under investigation by the special committee of the Alumni Corporation, have been reached, according to a statement made by Conant Van Blarcom '08 of Cleveland, president of the Corporation, on April 13, at the conclusion of a two-day meeting of the committee at Willard Straight Hall.

The material gathered by various sub-committees is being carefully and judiciously sifted, according to the statement, but at least two or three more meetings will be required before recommendations can be made.

Thirteen members of the committee attended the meeting. The committee was named as the result of a resolution passed at the annual meeting of the Corporation in Washington last year. It started its work, through sub-committees, early this year.

Karl W. Gass '12 of Pittsburgh, Pa., heads the sub-committee investigating the coaching situation. C. Rodman Stull '07 of Philadelphia, Pa., past president of the Corporation, is head of the committee investigating policies of the Athletic Association. Thomas I. S. Boak '14 of Seneca Falls heads the committee analyzing the athletic material available, and Dr. Floyd S. Winslow '06 of Rochester, vice-president of the Corporation, is chairman of the committee appraising the Faculty attitude toward athletics. Other chairmen are Tell S. Berna '12 of Orange, Mass., in charge of the committee surveying forms of intercollegiate sport other than football, and Robert E. Treman '09 of Ithaca, in charge of the committee analyzing the undergraduate attitude toward athletics.

BOOKS

The Root of All Evil

Money of Her Own. By Margaret Culkin Banning. New York. Harper. 1928. 19.3 cm., pp. vi, 329. Price, $2.

The theme of this story is the mischief which money can do in human affairs when the desire for it gets out of proportion.

Carol Ranger, whose passion for money is explained by an early childhood spent in poverty, is a beautiful and interesting girl, capable of fineness and depth of feeling, thwarted only by this weakness which, under peculiar circumstances, all but brings disaster.

Upon the death of her mother she was adopted by a wealthy uncle, whose obsession was a fear of losing the wealth he had accumulated by shrewdness and hard work.

He dies suddenly leaving a will by the terms of which his niece inherits his fortune "on condition that she shall retain control of her own property and not give it, in whole or in any part, to her spouse, whoever he may be. . ."

Philip Helm, the man Carol marries, is a fine chap, capable and lovable, perfectly able to support his family according to standards adapted to the salary he earns; further than that he is without personal fortune.

The situation becomes a tangle of motives, maladjustments, and misunderstandings. The solution results in a story of compelling interest.

The setting, that of the younger set in the best families of a provincial city, makes a vivid background, with the usual cocktails, high-power cars, and frantic quest for amusement.

In artistic contrast is the secondary theme of the Swede, Benson, a poor man at the opening of the story and a year later a millionaire, whose wealth cannot charm the young stenographer whose mother runs a boarding house and whose clear eyes and loyal heart alone seem to be able to "see life steadily and see it whole."

Robert Lyon Warner, senior partner of the firm of Warner, Tucker, and Company, investment bankers in Boston, died at his home there on March 25.

He was born in Kansas City, Mo., on May 19, 1869, the son of James G. and Flora Warner. He received the degree of M.E. in E.E., was a member of Beta Theta Pi, and was prominent in undergraduate affairs.

Mr. Warner was well known in banking circles in Boston, and was an officer and director in many electric light, power, and street railway companies.

His wife, who was Anne R. Pearson '92, and a son, Edward P. Warner, former Assistant Secretary of the Navy in charge of aviation, survive him.

Wandell B. Secor '99

Wandell B. Secor, for twenty-nine years a member of the faculty of the State Normal School in Trenton, N. J., died in Trenton, on March 13, of pneumonia.

He was born in Savannah, N. Y., on January 17, 1873, the son of Oliver G. and Sarah Taylor Secor. He received the degree of B.S.

Thomas R. Finucane '03

Thomas Raymond Finucane, vice-president of the Thomas W. Finucane Corporation, real estate operators in Rochester, N. Y., was one of the four passengers on the transport plane which was lost flying from Norfolk, Va., to the Curtis Flying Field on Long Island on March 22.

He was born on July 17, 1881. He took one year of agriculture and one year of law. He played on the football team and was a member of Psi Upsilon, Aleph Samach, and Mummy Club.

Charlotte B. Stout '28

Charlotte Burroughs Stout died on June 12 in Olcott, N. Y., of acute pericarditis.

She was born in Olcott, N. Y., on December 23, 1903, the daughter of Cicero F. and Nettie Burroughs Stout. She took two years of home economics, then attended the Wilson Teachers Training School, from which she graduated in 1927 with highest honors. The following year she taught in a district school in Hyde Park. Her chief interest was in literature, and she had written a number of poems.

Harold C. Kirkpatrick '16

Harold Clement Kirkpatrick died suddenly of pneumonia on March 1.

He was born in New York on July 18, 1894, the son of Arthur H. and Emily Clement Kirkpatrick. He took one year of chemistry, and was a member of Psi Upsilon. Since leaving college he had been associated with the firm of Arthur H. Kirkpatrick in New York, importers of precious stones.

Produce O'Neill Play

The Emperor Jones Added to Achievements of Cornell Players—Assist Dance Festival

The Cornell Dramatic Club has added to its list of major productions Eugene O'Neill's drama of negro psychology, "The Emperor Jones." This was first produced by George Cram Cook at the Provincetown Theatre in New York. "The Emperor Jones" is the play that brought O'Neill to the attention of the theatre-going public. His reputation as perhaps the greatest playwright America has produced still rests on "The Emperor Jones," "The Great God Brown," and "Lazarus Laughed." It is doubtful if O'Neill has ever surpassed in sustained dramatic power the picture of Brutus Jones, emperor of some nameless island in the West Indies gradually stripped of his thin coating of whiteman's civilization during one terrible night of flight through the jungle.

With its eight scenes, the first in the palace of the emperor, the other seven at different places in the great forest through which Jones is fleeing to the sea, and the various hallucinations which visit the fear-crazed negro, "The Emperor Jones" presents unusual problems in staging. The settings were designed after plans by Professor Alexander M. Drummond, director of the Club and executed by the stage force in charge of Lawrence Voss '29 and William McCabe '29. The forest scenes, for which a plaster sky dome was installed for Cook's production at the Provincetown Theatre, were effectively managed by the use of trees and gauze drops. A single setting was used for the forest scenes, the changes in place and time being suggested by lighting different portions of the set.

"The Emperor Jones" and a harlequinade curtain raiser, "A Merry Death" were given four performances, two before and two after spring recess.

On March 22 and 23 the Department of Physical Education for Women and the Dramatic Club produced jointly the annual dance festival. This year it was the story of Echo and Narcissus presented in dance pantomime. The dances and music were supervised by Dorothy Bateman '29 of the Department of Physical Education, and the pantomime was arranged and the production planned by Professor Drummond. The forest settings were conventionalized to harmonize with dance pantomime.

Two groups of one-act plays are scheduled for production April 19 and 20, and May 3 and 4. The plays include an original Cornell play "Yeah? Variety" by George Fass '29, "The Monkey's Paw" by W. W. Jacobs, "Station YYY" by Booth Tarkington, "The Albany Depot" by William Dean Howells, "Mary's Lamb" by Hubert Osborne, and "The Villain in the Piece" by Percival Wilde.

Last year the Club maintained its reputation as the most active Little Theatre producing group in the country, staging six full-length plays, a revue, and thirty-one one-act plays in a total of fifty-one performances. Fourteen thousand and thirty-nine people paid to see the Club's productions in 1927-8 and the box-office receipts were $11,516. The Club's receipts however, do not pay its running expenses. Royalties, scenery, and costumes for production on the scale the Club has now reached leave the organization unable to pay its direction staff. For further expansion in production and facilities for experimentation the Club is in need of endowment.

PROFESSOR GEORGE F. WARREN, Jr., '03, of the College of Agriculture, and Professor Sumner F. Slichter, of the Department of Economics, gave papers at the New York State-Wide Economic Congress held at the Hotel Astor in New York April 15-17.

DEAN DEXTER S. KIMBALL of the College of Engineering attended the convention of the New York State Vocational Association at the Hotel McAlpin, New York, April 3, 4, and 5.

PROFESSOR ALEXANDER M. DRUMMOND of the Department of Public Speaking was one of the speakers at the annual Eastern Public Speaking Conference, held at Princeton, New Jersey, on April 5 and 6.

THE ATHLETIC SURVEY

CONTROVERSIAL beyond any alumni discussion within our recollection, the present athletic situation is being studied very minutely by an alumni committee that seems adequate for the purpose. Unquestionably there are alumni everywhere who will deplore the fact that the survey committee on Saturday did not hit upon a panacea for all athletic ills that could be out into effect immediately.

The task of this committee, as we view it, is not so simple. To sift the true from the untrue, and more particularly, to get the grain of truth in the plethora of chaff, is no mean job to be handled casually over a week-end. We are inclined to congratulate the committee on two counts even at this early stage. First, while the committee comprises seventeen members, apparently all seventeen are working on the problem. Second, they have not yet reached a solution. Both points augur well for the future of Cornell's athletics.

We do not expect to enter into a discussion of the problems of the committee. We believe them capable of handling the problem with the help they have already had from the alumni and the public press. Nothing we could say would raise the boiling point, and this has certainly been reached. If we have erred in this matter, we have done so with open eyes. It is difficult to discuss the business of other persons without impertinence and without having available for rejoinders space far beyond our poor powers of expansion. The family washing might better be done in private.

In discussing the account of the meeting of this committee we do, however, wish to make one comment. The machine that once rolled 'em flat on cinder path, river, gridiron, or what have you, is missing in many of its cylinders. We venture to predict that the committee will find that it is not sufficient to change a few spark plugs, use a different brand of oil or gas, or any such simple remedies. To restore the machine to its pristine power will probably require adjustments and repairs in many directions. We trust that, on the whole, the adjustments will be minor ones, and that we shall have to give up neither the machine itself nor the desire to polish off our good friends, the opponents.

NEW YORK UNIVERSITY now has a total registration of 35,956. In the University College of Arts and Pure Science there are 937; in Washington Square College, 6,842; in all the degree-conferring units there are 10,608 full-time students and 27,881 students altogether; in the non-degree-conferring sections there are 11,209 students. The total number of women is 13,406, of whom 9,059 are in the degree-conferring sections. The total enrollment is more than three times that of 1918-19 (11,479).

Aid State Colleges

Special Appropriations by New York to Assist Development of Many Activities

Farm bills recently signed by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York State will benefit the Colleges of Agriculture and Home Economics by making funds available for carrying on experimental work in these colleges.

One bill appropriates $13,000 for the Geneva Experiment Station for research in certain insect pests. Another grants $5,000 to the College of Home Economics for research on the living costs on farms.

An appropriation of $150,532 is made for new activities at the College of Agriculture, including investigations on the muck soil of the State, the production, storage and diseases of potatoes, problems involved in regional agricultural adjustment, the operation of city markets, co-operative marketing, aspects of rural government, and extension and development of the work in animal husbandry, including a new calf barn, extensive alterations in existing barns, larger maintenance funds, and additions to the staff.

The bill also carries $10,000 for printing and a new editorial assistant. In addition to these special appropriations, the regular appropriation bills carried $29,000, a fund for immediate needs, $21,000 for general items in the College of Agriculture, $7,950 for Home Economics, and $26,260 for the Geneva Station.

Another bill appropriates $30,000 for buildings to be constructed at Elmira to house a permanent egg-laying contest, part of a nationwide scheme for poultry improvement. The contest will be supervised by specialists of the College.

THE BOARD of editors of The Widow will be headed next year by Arthur P. Hibbard '30, Elizabeth, N. J., as editor-in-chief. Other members are William B. Edwards '30, Chatham, N. J., managing editor; Francis H. Marston '30, Claremont, N. H., art editor; George L. Bidwell '30, Ithaca, business manager; Lowell G. Powers '30, Hazelton, Pa., circulation manager; William H. Searing '31, Newburg, assistant business manager; Richard C. Guthridge '30, White Plains, assistant circulation manager; and William F. Rountree '31, Houston, Texas, second assistant business manager.

GROUND for the new Brothers College building at Drew Seminary, Madison, N. J., was broken on March 18 in the presence of the two donors, Leonard D. Baldwin '92 and Arthur J. Baldwin '92. The building is to cost $500,000. The Baldwin brothers, who provided the Baldwin Memorial Stairway on University Avenue, Ithaca, have also given $1,000,000 for an endowment for the new college.

The Week on the Campus

INTESTINAL warfare broke out on the Campus last week, to the grief of those thinkers who had considered collegiatism in Cornell extinct, and to the pleasure of those oldsters who hold that class warfare is a sign of academic health, and who recall tenderly the grim battles of old time and the gorges running with blood. The occasion was the Sophomore Smoker, last Friday, in Willard Straight Hall. The strategy was roughly that of Captain Parker at the Battle of Lexington, 152 years ago next Friday. The sophomores, advancing in single file toward their objective, were obliged to pass a large contingent of freshmen in ambush by the entrance. The freshmen had borrowed a fire hose from the City, to the City's surprise; this was attached to a hydrant near by, and accounted for many casualties. This heavy artillery was supplemented by a corps of grenadiers, armed with stink bombs, eggs, and food-stuffs, largely vegetables. The Chemical Warfare Division supplied a number of tear bombs, which vindicated the study of chemistry as a practical science. The infantry advanced under an efficient barrage, and engaged in hand-to-hand conflict, in the course of which a number of sophomores were completely stripped.

THE ungrateful rôle of the neutral was played by a corps of C men and Student Council members, who succeeded in preventing injury to the building itself. For this foresight the community is sincerely thankful, for the mural paintings and other decorations of Willard Straight Hall must not be imperiled by youthful ebullience.

THE FRESHMEN are to hold their banquet next Saturday evening. Formal dress will not be much worn.

BUT TO COME BACK to the Sophomore Smoker. When the ranks were somewhat reformed within the building, the party was addressed by Tell S. Berna '12, former intercollegiate two-mile champion, and by Andrew J. Whinery '10, both of whom are members of the Committee of Seventeen appointed to examine the state of athletics. Mr. Berna carried on the discussion of the relations of students and alumni, to which reference has already been made in these pantoscopic columns. "The first business of the Cornell man is to become a cultured gentleman. We do not want coal-heaver athletes. We want men with a keen interest in life, in which graduation is only a forward step." He defended the necessity of obtaining high marks, since the world of business requires such a fight to make good today. "Intercollegiate victories are so hard to get they sometimes seem not worth while. But nothing develops a man's character as well as athletics in addition to class room work. The man who does better than his previous best to win a track meet has done something."

THE Sun too has something to say about us alumni. To be sure, what it says is just the reverse of what it said a couple of weeks ago; but remember that on the morning that the letter of Herbert D. Mason '00 was printed the entire board retired. Anyway, the Sun concludes; "Intelligent alumni investigation . . . is highly desirable in brushing up on possible administrative injustices to which the average student is too rushed to give due attention."

THE FIRST professional drama to play in Ithaca since 1924 (not counting a certain stock company, which, to be sure, did its best and certainly not counting "Abie's Irish Rose") was put on at the Strand last Tuesday. It was a road company of "Rio Rita." Somewhat to our astonishment, it was just as good as the New York production, and in some features better. Apparently the managers have discovered what we could have told them long ago: that the collapse of the Road is chiefly due to the fact that the road companies were rotten, and that the Road may be revived by the simple process of giving the Road its money's worth. Every one of the 1600 seats at the Strand was taken; the management should be well rewarded for its daring. Thank you, Mr. Saperstein.

THE DRAMATIC CLUB repeated its successful bill of a few weeks past: Robert Harper '30 in "The Emperor Jones," and Evreinov's "A Merry Death."

THE FOURTH ANNUAL Barnyard Ball was held in the Old Armory on Friday, April 12.

GORDON WATKINS of the Ithaca Piano School gave a memorable piano recital in Willard Straight Hall on Sunday afternoon, April 14.

INTERNATIONAL WEEK on the lecture platform. America won with Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President of the United States, who spoke to the Liberal Club on April 10 on "Why We Need a Labor Party in the United States," and to the Rotary Club on "Why Freedom Matters" (Do you hear me, Mr. Menden?); Professor Emerson H. Swift of the Department of Fine Arts of Columbia on April 10 on "The Great Church of St. Sophia"; and Walter L. Gregory of Chicago, who addressed the Hotel Administration students. Germany was second, with Professor A. Sommerfeld of the University of Munich, on April 10 and 11 talking "About Wave Mechanics" and "The Electron Theory of Metals," and Dr. Theodor Rehbock of Karlsruhe, who lectured on hydraulic experimentation. France, Austria, and India tied for third, with Dr. Frantz Funck-Brentano, historian, on April 12, discussing in French the life of the Revolution and the Empire as depicted by David and Prud'hon, Professor Paul L. Dengler of Vienna on April 11 on "The Spirit of New Education in Austria," and Mme. Sarojini Naidu on April 9 on "Interpretations of the Modern Indian Renaissance."

THE THIRD ANNUAL conference for Grange lecturers went on at the College of Agriculture last week.

ALPHA EPSILON PHI has won a cup for having the highest scholastic average of the sororities, tallying 79.4468 per cent. When you reflect that this means practically a B average for a whole sorority, and that the other sororities were not far behind, you can draw some conclusions about the intellectual apathy of youth.

THE WOMEN'S Fencing Team met the New York Fencers Club in Prudence Risley Hall last Saturday.

A LACKAWANNA student special broke all records to New York just before vacation. It left Ithaca at 4.35 p. m. and arrived in Hoboken at 9.52½, making the trip (to save you the trouble) in 5 hours and 17½ minutes.

SPRING DAY this year is May 18. The motif has been announced as Commodore Byrd's Trip to the South Pole. The theme will be appropriate, if the weather be hot or cold. One thing about it, it leaves little scope for the one usual, and somewhat wearisome, recourse of undergraduate humors: male nudity.

M. G. B.

THE FACULTY

PROFESSOR CLARK S. NORTHUP '93 spoke on April 4 before the Georgia Association of Phi Beta Kappa Alumni at Atlanta on "Faith in Education." On April 5 he spoke before the students of Agnes Scott College, Decatur, Georgia, on "Some Tendencies in American Life" and installed the new chapter of Phi Beta Kappa at Emory University, speaking at the open meeting on "Scholarships and Progress." On April 7 he was the guest of the University of Tennessee Association of Phi Beta Kappa Alumni at Knoxville and spoke at the dinner on "The Support of Scholarship."

PROFESSOR Joseph Q. Adams '06 of the Department of English lectured on March 25 at Elmira College on "Elizabethan Settings."

PROFESSOR FRANK THILLY '91-2 Grad., of the Department of Philosophy spoke on March 26 in Cincinnati before the Western Division of the American Philosophical Association.

PROFESSOR FLOYD K. RICHTMYER '04 of the Department of Physics, has been selected consulting editor of the International Series in Physics to be produced by the McGraw-Hill Book Company.

DR. MATZKE IS DEAD

Dr. Edith Hedges Matzke, former medical adviser to women and acting adviser to women at the University from 1916 to 1919, died in San Francisco on April 7. She was a nationally known authority on public health and a member of the faculty of Stanford University. She also served on the faculties of Pennsylvania and Missouri.

She was sixty-one years old.

THE CLUBSMichigan

More than forty Cornell alumni from Detroit attended the track meet with Michigan held at Ann Arbor on March 23, among them Charles Beaman '08, president of the Cornell Club of Michigan, Benjamin H. Micou '16, Herbert Snyder '16, George B. Walbridge '00, Frank Nitzberg '22, Virgil Oldberg '02 and his son, Oscar O. Oldberg '27, John F. Anderson '29, and Harold Cole '16.

Members of the Cornell Club of Michigan who reside in Detroit are taking an active interest in the new Intercollegiate Alumni Club, which is an outgrowth of the Intercollegiate Association, which has been active for fifteen years. A clubhouse, containing rooms for members, swimming pool, and gymnasium, will be built in the downtown business section of Detroit. Lloyd G. Grinnell '16 is chairman of the executive committee, and others taking an active part in the organization are Charles L. Beaman '08, Henry E. Epley '03, Ralph F. Shreve '06, and Burton J. Lemon '08.

Other members are Myron B. Bloy '20, Jackson B. Clark '12, Thomas B. Colby '23, Harold Cole '16, William D. Crim '17, Charles R. Davis '08, James L. Elwood '06, Roy C. Folger '08, Walter J. Graves '09, Arthur S. Griswold '22, Harold M. Hastings '10, Archibald B. Morrison '01, Oscar O. Oldberg '27, Blinn S. Page '13, Randolph J. Roshirt '14, J. Allan Smith, Jr., '23, Morgan B. Smith '05, Robert W. Standart, Jr., '09, George B. Walbridge '00, Theodore L. Welles, Jr., '13, Don T. Woods '23, and Verne Skillman '08.

Nalanda

On March 23 the second of the '11 chapter of Nalanda luncheons was held in the same place on lower Third Avenue. One might add that this place still contains many relics of the "Singerbund Age" and was true to form in that sense this 1929.

The members present were Ed Wheelan, Doc Bole, Tommy Thomson, Stan Mott, Chic Divine, Sandy Brown, Sport Ward, and Tom Ludlum, all of '11.

Other Nalandas and guests present were Walt Wing '07, Tom Page '07, Cy Weed '09, Les Barnum '09, Paul Williams '10, and Bill Van Kirk '13.

Suddenly, out of a spring sky . . .

An Advertisement of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company

ALL was well on the telephone front on April 27, 1928. Suddenly, out of a spring sky, rain began to fall over central Pennsylvania. As night came on this turned into a furious storm of sleet, snow and wind. Inside of 48 hours, 3700 telephone poles were down. Seven thousand miles of wire tangled wreckage. Thirty-nine exchanges isolated. Eleven thousand telephones silent.

Repair crews were instantly mobilized and sent to the scene. From Philadelphia 47 crews came. Other parts of Pennsylvania sent 13. New Jersey, 6. New York, 4. Ohio, 6. Maryland and West Virginia, 12. In record time, 1000 men were stringing insulated wire and temporary cables along the highways, on fences and on the ground.

Within 72 hours the isolated exchanges were connected and the 11,000 telephones back in service. Then, while the temporary construction carried on, neighboring Bell System warehouses poured out all needed equipment, new poles were set, new crossarms placed and new wire and cable run.

In any crisis there are no state lines in the Bell System. In all emergencies of flood or storm, as well as in the daily tasks of extending and maintaining the nation-wide network, is seen the wisdom of One Policy, One System, Universal Service. Better and better telephone service at the lowest cost is the goal of the Bell System. Present improvements constantly going into effect are but the foundation for the greater service of the future.

Fine Enough for All Interior Work

FOR interior as well as for exterior use, architects use Indiana Limestone. The all-stone exterior, so much admired, is not prohibitively expensive. New methods and large scale production of Indiana Limestone make this beautiful, light-colored natural stone moderate in cost.

The texture of Indiana Limestone varies from the almost invisibly fine to rather granular. This stone, while not too hard to be cut with the greatest ease into any required shapes, yet is tough enough to be deeply undercut and carved into the most delicate ornament and tracery. When exposed to the air for a time in a building, it becomes seasoned and is then quite hard and practically everlasting.

Let us send you our illustrated booklet showing samples of school and collegiate buildings of the better type. Many trim as well as all-stone buildings are shown in its pages. A reading of this booklet will give you a clear picture of what is being done the country over in college buildings. For the booklet, address Dept. 810, Service Bureau, Bedford, Indiana.

NOT A GIFT, BUT AN INVESTMENT

THE Cornell Alumni News Publishing Corporation, incorporated December 31, 1926, successfully operates the CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS and the Cayuga Press. The latter is a printing establishment that does a general printing business now aggregating $120,000 a year. This includes many scholarly books for nationally recognized publishing houses. An excellent specimen of its technique is the volume of "Sport Stuff" recently purchased by many alumni.

THE ALUMNI NEWS WAS ESTABLISHED thirty years ago, the Cayuga Press sixteen years ago. The business has a real opportunity for profitable service.

THE CORPORATION OWNS fine equipment. It has just acquired title to its building which is appraised at $80,000. The corporation has paid its preferred stock dividends promptly each quarter from earnings.

THERE ARE SOME 150 ALUMNI STOCKHOLDERS, including distinguished and successful men and women from all classes from 1875 to 1927, and non-Cornellian friends of Cornell.

THERE REMAINS ABOUT $15,000 of the original issue of $125,000. We should like as many interested alumni as possible to become stockholders in this corporation. The improvement of the ALUMNI NEWS alone would be worth the purchase of a few shares of this stock to many of its readers.

THE FACTS CONCERNING THIS STOCK are as follows: Authorized, 1250 shares of 7% Cumulative, Voting, Preferred Stock, Par $100. For sale at Par. Redeemable in whole or in part at the option of the company, on thirty days' written notice, on any dividend date, at $105 and accrued dividends. Each share of preferred stock carries with it a bonus of one share of No-Par, Voting, Common Stock, being one of an issue of 6500 such shares. Dividends are payable Jan. 1, Apr. 1, July 1, and Oct. 1.

SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR STOCK BY ALUMNI may be made with 10% cash payment, balance on any reasonable schedule, partial payments bearing interest at 7%. Address inquiries to the president of the corporation.

Are Your Books Identified?

All of us loan books. It is easily possible after finishing a book to put it on our own shelves before it is convenient to return it. It is embarrassing but it happens. Have bookplates with your name printed on them. What could be better for a Cornellian than the bookplates showing campus scenes?

Garden Books

My wife says that I make a garden with a book in one hand. There are worse ways. The only trouble is that the book does not show where the bug is which is waiting for my seed. Ask for our agriculture booklist.

The Old Model Remington Portable Typewriter

$45.00

Not all Remington agencies have these old models. We had a few because the new model arrived nearly a year ahead of time. In a couple of months our stock will be gone. Are you interested?

What Service Should We Render to the Alumni?

We are mailing many items now and these, in many cases, were suggested to us. The latest item is bookplates. Some time in the future our Board of Directors may develop a better plan of cooperation with the Alumni. What would you suggest?
