For Christmas

Morgan's 1935 Cornell Calendar $1.55 postage paid

The cover is a new colored view of the Library. January shows Myron Taylor Hall through snow laden bushes. February is a new "ice age" picture of Taughannock Gorge. March travels to the gorge near Forest Home and there is still a touch of winter. In the Summer months you have athletics and Commencement. An airplane view of the Campus and lake give you a new idea of the present Campus. Order early this year if you want to be sure of a calendar.

STATE SCHOLARS SUCCEED 400 Shown Superior

That those who have held State cash scholarships at the University are more successful as students, in college activities, and in their lives after graduation than the general average of Cornellians is the conclusion of John K. Archer '27, who has just completed a detailed study of their achievements, both while they were in the University and since.

Archer is principal of Malverne High School at Malverne, New York. He received his Master of Arts degree in September. Under the direction of Dr. Riverda H. Jordan and Dr. Frank S. Freeman he investigated the achievements in school, in the University, and as alumni of the nearly four hundred graduates who held State cash scholarships from 1913, when they were first established, to 1927. The study was confined to those who held scholarships in the first eleven years to give a reasonable lapse of time after graduation before inquiring of these alumni as to their accomplishments.

The first interesting fact that Archer found was that during the period studied, more than a third of all those who won these scholarships, good in any collegiate institution in the State, chose to come to Ithaca. Next to Cornell, the largest numbers went to Columbia, Hunter, Syracuse, College of the City of New York, State College for Teachers, New York University, Rochester, Vassar, Elmira, St. Bonaventure, and Union, in the order named.

In Regents' examinations, mental test scores, and in their college grades, these scholars in the University proved consistently superior to comparable groups of average students. Nineteen percent of them were elected to Phi Beta Kappa. They remained in the University longer than did other groups used for comparison; 83.33 percent of them received Cornell degrees.

Contrary to the popular conception that a "scholar" is unsocial, uninterested in student activities, devoted to scholastic pursuits to the exclusion of all others, the average of this group proved himself to be quite the contrary. Seventy-three percent of them were members of honorary fraternities, social fraternities, or honorary societies. Sixty percent took part in at least one student activity.

These social activities are the more remarkable in view of the fact that 68 percent of the group were partially or entirely self-supporting in college. The average scholar was able to be a member of a fraternity, to participate in extracurricular activities, and to partially support himself, all at the same time.

The achievements of these scholars as alumni, Archer found, show the same consistent superiority. More are engaged in teaching than in any other profession. The other vocations in which they are engaged, in order according to the number in each, are engineers, business executives, statisticians, lawyers, physicians, scientists, accountants, social welfare workers, librarians, salesmen. Forty percent of the group have received advanced degrees.

The average maximum salary received is slightly less than $3,000 a year. A few, however, receive from $9,000 to more than $20,000. Comparatively few have felt the effects of the economic situation in reductions of salary, and but a very few reported losses of their positions as a result of the depression.

A large variety of civic, social, and military services were reported by the members of the group. Distinctions which these alumni received ranged from election to membership and positions of honor in a large number of organizations to the royal orders of foreign governments.

His pledge to hold in confidence the information they gave him prevents, Archer says, even brief biographies of these State scholars. He expresses to all who read his report, however, his appreciation of their assistance. Their records are ample justification to themselves, to the University, and to the State for the help rendered them by these scholarships.

The State of New York, through the Commissioner of Education at Albany, awards each year five State University Scholarships for each Assembly district of the State. They entitle the holder to $100 for each year he attends an approved college in the State, for a period of four years. Holders of these scholarships are not restricted in choice of college except that it must be one authorized to confer degrees and within the State; nor in course of study except that they do not include professional instruction in theology or in any graduate courses following the receiving of a bachelor's degree.

CHAMBER MUSIC with wind instruments was broadcast by three students over the University station WESG on Monday afternoon. Matthew T. Jones, Grad., of Cleveland, O., playing the flute; Francis B. Rosevear '33 of Bloomfield, N. J., the English horn; and Paul B. Marsh '37 of Niagara Falls, the clarinet, gave Beethoven's Trio Opus 87, transcribed for these instruments. All are members of the University Orchestra and of its chamber music group, directed by George L. Coleman '95.

CLARKE '13 WELL KNOWN To Give New Courses Here

Gilmore D. Clarke '13, who comes to the University February 1, 1935, to assume direction of the new inter-college department of large scale planning, as announced in the ALUMNI NEWS of November 22, is one of the best-known leaders in the field of regional development. Although perhaps best known for his work with the Westchester County Park Commission, he has since his first job in 1914 with the Hudson County, N. J., Park Commission, directed numerous large and important developments in many parts of the country.

Graduating from the College of Agriculture in 1913, Clarke entered the employ of C. N. Lowrie as resident engineer at North Hudson and Bayonne Parks in New Jersey. In 1916 he became superintendent of construction of the Bronx River Parkway, where he remained, except for war service, until its completion in 1922. That year he became landscape architect for the Westchester County Park Commission and has been responsible for much of the planning of this great development, which has attracted worldwide attention. From 1929 to 1932 he was landscape architect of the Mt. Vernon Memorial Highway constructed by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads from the Arlington Bridge to Mt. Vernon, Va.

As collaborator-at-large with the National Park Service, he prepared the plan for the Mammoth Hot Springs area of Yellowstone National Park, and is consulting landscape architect on the Shenandoah-Great Smokies Parkway. He is also consulting landscape architect of the Niagara Frontier State Park Commission in connection with the development of parks and parkways on Grand Island; of the New York City Park Department; of the Henry Hudson Parkway Authority and of the Riverside Drive Improvement in New York City; of the Long Island State Park Commission; and chairman of the committee on park structures of the New York State Council of Parks.

In 1931, Clarke received the gold medal of honor in landscape architecture of the Architectural League of New York for his work on the Westchester County park system. He is a member of the University's architectural advisory board and of the advisory committee on landscape architecture of the College of Architecture; of the visiting committee of the Board of Overseers, Schools of Architecture and Landscape Architecture of Harvard University; and of the advisory committee of the course in city planning in the School of Architecture at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

He is a trustee and member of the executive committee, of the committee on school of fine arts, and committee on library of the American Academy in Rome; a fellow and trustee of the American Society of Landscape Architects; and past vice-president of the Architectural League of New York. In 1932 he was appointed by President Hoover a member of the National Commission of Fine Arts.

Clarke is a member of the firm of Vitale & Geiffert, Gilmore D. Clarke, landscape architects, 101 Park Avenue, New York City. For the present he will devote half time to teaching at Ithaca. The specific program to be offered proposes:

1. An introductory course for juniors and seniors, dealing with the history, theory, and development of large scale planning. This course will be the main feature of the program. It will be entirely non-technical in character so that students from the Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Law, Medicine, or Agriculture will be as well able to follow it as those from Engineering or Architecture.

2. An advanced course to follow the introductory course.

3. Seminars in special fields.

Clarke was born in New York City July 12, 1892. He entered the University in 1909 from Dwight School and received the degree of Bachelor of Science in 1913. He was a member of Heb-Sa, of the Widow board, and of Mabrique. In May, 1917, he entered the Reserve Officers Training Camp at Plattsburgh, was commissioned First Lieutenant and assigned to Co. F, Sixth U. S. Engineers, Third Division. After a short stay at Washington Barracks he went overseas as adjutant to the Second Battalion, Sixth Engineers, and took part in the Somme defensive, Champagne-Marne defensive, Aisne-Marne offensive, St. Mihiel offensive, Meuse-Argonne offensive, and was a member of the Army of Occupation. In July, 1918, he was commissioned Captain and assigned to duty as secretary of the General Staff, Third Division. He received a divisional citation, G.H.Q. citation, Order of the Purple Heart, and Silver Star Medal. He resigned his commission in May, 1919, and now holds a commission as Major in the Corps of Engineers Reserve.

On August 16, 1917, Clarke married Emma E. Vought of New York City. They have three children, Elizabeth, Edward, and Doris. Since 1920 they have made their home at 7 Benedict Place, Pelham, N. Y. In 1929, Clarke lectured on the Campus in the series of lectures on regional planning and the development of public properties sponsored by the Colleges of Engineering and Architecture, on the Schiff Foundation.

THE SUN has elected to its business board Alice C. Bailey '36 of Skaneateles, Evan L. Noyes '37 of Indianapolis, Ind., and Irvin F. Impink, Jr. '37 of Reading, Pa.

LETTERS

Subject to the usual restrictions of space and good taste, we shall print letters from subscribers on any side of any subject of interest to Cornellians. The ALUMNI NEWS often may not agree with the sentiments expressed, and disclaims any responsibility beyond that of fostering interest in the University.

USE OUTSIDE SPEAKERS

To the Editor:

I do not think your caption, "Can the Alumni Be Educated," was a very happy one, unless you had in mind provoking discussions such as Mr. Faile opens up. [We did—see our issue of November 22.—ED.] Here are a few comments upon Mr. Faile's letter concerning the proposed Alumni College.

Only by experiment, I believe, can we determine the success of such a venture. It has some attractive features and likewise there are manifest uncertainties. In making such an experiment it might well be worth while to have returning alumni present any new developments in their field that might help either the graduates or the Faculty to obtain a clearer view of that field. In this respect Mr. Faile's suggestion is worth considering.

I cannot follow him, however, in his views that a college faculty is necessarily a cloistered body that has little or no contact with life. In this respect he shows a limited knowledge of his own Alma Mater. Of course, there are Faculty men, as there are practicing engineers, who fail to grow as they advance in years, but it is not wise to generalize too freely.

There are few institutions, I believe, that make as strong an effort to bring the outside world to its class rooms as does Cornell. The University as a whole, through the Schiff and Goldwin Smith Foundations, in normal years brings at least seventy men of distinction in many fields of thought to lecture to students and Faculty. In addition, many departments every year invite outside speakers, alumni and others, to supplement the regular class room work. In the College of Engineering alone, over forty such lectures were given to classes in the College last year, many of them by outstanding engineers.

GILMORE D. CLARKE '13
Appointed professor of regional planning to give the new courses for all students beginning in February, 1935

In addition, the College of Engineering has had for some years the benefits of a Council consisting of four alumni members of the Board of Trustees and six other alumni from the industrial field. This Council met in Ithaca last week and discussed the affairs of the College with the Dean and Directors.

As opposed to the cloistered idea put forth by Mr. Faile, one of the most difficult problems in university administration is the control of the participation of faculty members in practical work. Many colleges of engineering have been compelled to enact rules and regulations covering such work both as to personal service and the use of laboratories. And more noteworthy is the recent action of the Board of Direction of The American Society of Civil Engineers which proposes greater restriction upon the practice of teachers doing outside consulting work. This does not present the professor as much of a cloistered individual!

Mr. Faile, furthermore, does not distinguish between basic knowledge and current practice. The University is concerned primarily and necessarily with discovering and teaching basic knowledge, and not with its many practical applications except as they illustrate instruction. Basic knowledge grows constantly, just as does the application of the same. The college graduate, except as he is employed in research, seldom adds much to his basic knowledge, but rather to its applications.

I have assumed that the alumnus who would attend the proposed alumni college would be seeking an extension of his fundamental knowledge and that is the one thing the University can offer him. The addition of alumni speakers to discuss current practice might be helpful, but they would have to be chosen with great care, for generally speaking, the practicing engineer with no teaching experience is a disappointment as a teacher.

AUBURN CLUB COMING

Forty members of the Cornell Club of Auburn attended a dinner meeting of the Club in the Chamber of Commerce Building the evening of November 21. Gilbert R. Beebe '25, the president, conducted a brief business meeting and then introduced Ray S. Ashbery '25, Alumni Field Secretary, who spoke on plans for Cornell Day at the University next spring. Professor Herman Diederichs '97 as chairman of the committee on athletic control, described the present athletic situation at the University. The guests, in spite of their proximity to Ithaca, were much interested in the first showing by Ashbery of the new Campus pictorial.

A committee was appointed to arrange if possible for a visit of the Musical Clubs to Auburn, and the Club voted to hold a future meeting in Ithaca, when they will come as a body for dinner in Willard Straight Hall and afterward attend a basketball game or some other athletic event.

MISS CORNELL 87

Miss Mary E. Cornell, only surviving child of the Founder, was eighty-seven years old on November 21. She celebrated her birthday in her apartment at 202 Stewart Avenue, Ithaca, receiving friends and opening gifts and flowers. One of the first bouquets to reach her was from the Cornell Women's Club of Ithaca.

Although unable to move from her chair without assistance, Miss Cornell is an avid reader and maintains her lifelong interest in the University. She has lived alone except for a maid in her present home for fourteen years. Except for five years in New York City during the War, most of her life has been spent in Ithaca.

The seventh child of Ezra Cornell, Miss Cornell entered Vassar College with the first class the year her father founded the University. She never graduated because her father felt that her health was too delicate to stand up under the intensive study required. She expressed disappointment that the new biography of her father by Albert W. Smith '78 would not be ready for a few days.

About ATHLETICS

HARRIERS TAKE FIFTH

The cross country team took fifth place in a field of 18 colleges over the newly-constructed six mile course at Van Cortlandt Park in New York on November 19. Ottey of Michigan State crossed the line first in 31 minutes, 54.6 seconds, successfully defending the title he won last year and thereby joining the select list of two-time winners which had previously consisted only of John Paul Jones '13, Johnny Overton of Yale, and Bill Cox of Penn State.

The first Varsity harrier to finish was Ellison H. Taylor '35 of Springfield, Mass., who came in eighth. Others were Edmund V. Mezitt '38 of Weston, Mass., 21; Captain Bruce Kerr '35 of Ithaca, 36; John Meaden '37 of LaGrange, Ill., 54; William V. Bassett '37 of West Newton, Mass., 59; John H. Peck '36 of Morristown, N. J., 67; and John H. Chapin '35 of Montreal, 70. The team finished with 173 points, as compared with 77 for Michigan State, 93 for Maine, 117 for Manhattan, 161 for Yale.

Herbert H. Cornell of Brooklyn finished fourth in the freshman race in 15:41. The freshman team took sixth place.

At the annual banquet of the Cross Country Club, held at Varna on November 23, John Meaden '37 of LaGrange, Ill. and Edmund V. Mezitt '37 of Weston, Mass. were elected co-captains of next year's team. Speakers were Professor Romeyn Y. Thatcher '09 and Charles C. Carter '22, captain of the 1921 cross country team which shattered all previous records by taking six of the first nine places in the Intercollegiates. Coach Moakley presented the trophies for the season. The Lung Mow trophy for showing the greatest improvement went to William M. Barry '36 of Cherubusco; blind handicap awards were won by Mezzitt first, William R. Crary '36 of Liberty second, and William V. Bassett '37 of West Newton, Mass. third; freshman cups by Herbert H. Cornell of Brooklyn first, Warren L. Bohner of Maplewood, N. J. second, and Robert T. Gaffney of Great Neck third.

BASKETBALL SQUAD WORKS

Daily scrimmage of the basketball squad started last week in preparation for the first game, with Niagara December 8 in the Drill Hall. Coach Howard B. Ortner '18 has invited free competition for places on the team, saying that none of the holdovers from last year are certain of places this year. He has more tall men available this year than usual and a good crop of sophomores.

From last year's team, Coach Ortner has available Captain William H. Foote '35 of Miles, Wis., John C. Wilson, Jr., '35 of Milwaukee, Wis., Ernest A. Downer '36 of Poughkeepsie, Lewis M. Freed '36 of Wilkes Barre, Pa., Charles E. Dykes '36 of Springfield, O., and after the football season, Gordon F. Stofer '36 of Olmsted Falls, O.

THE FOOTBALL COACH at Alfred University, John (Ghost) Galloway, has announced that he will enter the University next fall as a candidate for a degree. He has been coach at Alfred five years.

PUBLIC PLANNING COURSES

Like training for public service, courses in public planning such as are to be instituted at Cornell require a University with many-sided facilities and a faculty which has imagination. We believe the new courses will be a valuable service to the Nation and its smaller political subdivisions in turning out comprehending citizens.

Each such offering, like Administrative Engineering, is an innovation of great value in supplying persons to the country with a broad point of view. It is difficult in the average college to break down the ancient barriers that forbid education to produce any kind of specially trained citizen. The whole background is in favor of culture, as such, without recognition of the fact that a course can produce simultaneously a cultured gentleman and a person with basic knowledge that can be directly applied to a definite set of problems.

So it is with training for diplomatic service, consular service, statesmanship, and every other type of public service. Vast sums of money are spent to reduce armament, to eliminate preparedness, to render other nations powerless to enter a war. More money yet goes to prepare for war. Another huge sum goes into the fight between those two ideas. Apparently, however, no one has seriously considered spending a small sum to eliminate the ignorance of those who cause wars, by training diplomats and statesmen to enable this country to get along with her sister countries. A similar near-sightedness exists almost universally. It is impossible to see the cemeteries for the tombstones.

The inauguration of courses in public planning, even planning of the merely physical aspects of the country, is a gain for civilization and culture. We wish a stretch of imagination could be taken that would include public planning in an even broader sense.

CALIFORNIA WOMEN

The Cornell Women's Club of Northern California met on November 11 at the home of Mrs. Nairne F. Ward (Janet B. Nundy) '26 at Berkeley. A luncheon preceded the meeting. The December meeting will be with Mrs. Walter Mulford (Vera Wandling) '03, 1637 Spruce Street, Berkeley.

COSMOPOLITAN CLUB

The Cosmopolitan Club on November 23 celebrated its thirtieth anniversary with an informal meeting and social hour at the Clubhouse to which all foreign students in the University and all associate members were invited.

Professor Chester J. Hunn '08 told something of the founding of this first collegiate Cosmopolitan Club in the United States in 1904 by Modesto Quiroga, MSA '05. An hour of international music followed, opened by Chao Chien Cheng '38 of Shanghai, China, imitating Bing Crosby. A group of Spanish-American students gave a program of their native music, as did Prabhakar L. Kirloskar, Sp., of Kirloskarvadi, India. Chinese students rendered excerpts from Chinese operas, and a group of women students sang Hawaiian songs.

HOTEL COURSE EFFECTIVE

Professor Howard B. Meek of the course in hotel management, in a recent interview with the Sun, said that but two percent of the graduates of the course are unemployed, and that 186 of the 231 living graduates are directly connected with the hotel business. This year 179 students are registered in the course as compared with 151 last June, an increase of 16 percent. Thirty percent of the students are connected with hotels through their families, and 30 percent have been connected with hotels in one way or another before entering the course.

The Department of Hotel Administration was founded in the spring of 1922, receiving generous aid from the American Hotel Association and opening the following autumn with Professor Meek in charge and with 20 students. It is a tuition course and attracts students from most states of the Union. An important part of the work is supervised employment in hotels during the summers, and Professor Meek reports that even through the depression period there has been no difficulty in finding places for the students. Much of the support of the Department now comes from annual grants from the heirs and trustees of the late Ellsworth M. Statler.

SCRANTON WOMEN ELECT

Cornell alumnae residing in Scranton and vicinity have recently organized the Cornell Women's Club of Northeastern Pennsylvania. Newly elected officers of the Club include Mrs. J. Bert Wilson (Louise Dean) '18, president; Mary R. Corcoran, AM '30, vice-president; and Dorothy H. Peck '27, secretary and treasurer. The Club will welcome to its meetings all Cornell women in northeastern Pennsylvania. Any who have not received notices of the meetings are invited to communicate with Miss Peck, whose address is 1720 Jefferson Avenue, Scranton, Pennsylvania. The club plans to meet each month, with December 8 the next date.

HELP ITHACA CHEST

In addition to President Livingston Farrand, honorary chairman, Professor Paul M. Lincoln, president, and Harry G. Stutz '07, chairman, many other Cornellians took part as division majors, junior majors, captains, and solicitors of contributions to help raise Ithaca's community chest of $70,950.

A University division of sixty-three headed by Professor H. Whetzel and with Dean William A. Hagan and Professor Howard B. Meek as junior majors, was composed entirely of members of the staff and worked exclusively on the Hill.

Among the Cornellians who worked in the campaign of the city proper were:

Jerome A. Fried '08, Edward T. Horn '29, George F. Morgan '03, Robert R. Scidmore '26, L. N. Simmons '12, Harry W. Eustance '24, Norman G. Stagg '26, Howard B. Ortner '18, William J. Mitchell '00, Chester H. Hewitt '27, Clarence F. Morse '14, Leon C. Pritchard '12, Henry J. Shirey '25, Harold A. Pratt '21, Mrs. George R. Hanselman '23, Mrs. Myron G. Fincher '21, John V. Larkin '20, Richard L. Masters '27, Francis J. MacAniff '29, George H. Russell '18, Charles H. Blood '88, Mrs. Willard W. Ellis '90, Jared T. Newman '75, Sherman Peer '06, Leon D. Rothschild '09, Mrs. Allan Treman '26, Ebenezer T. Turner '84, Gerald C. Williams '20, Elizabeth Boyle '31, Cecil R. Rosenberry '25, Mrs. D. Boardman Lee '29, Mrs. George H. BRIEF NEWS OF CAMPUS AND TOWN

THANKSGIVING holiday Thursday and Friday takes many students to the Penn game and home for the week-end. For a week rides have been the commodity most freely offered and sought in the classified columns of the Sun, mostly of course in the direction of Philadelphia and the Metropolis. Rates seem to vary greatly and leaving times begin on Tuesday noon. One interesting want ad is for "Ride to New York by lady."

WILLARD STRAIGHT, meanwhile, characteristically offers a varied program over the week-end for those who will stay in Ithaca. Amplifiers in Memorial Hall bring stay-at-homes the broadcast of the game at Philadelphia, and Thursday night a party is being held in which horse races are the feature, followed by dancing. On Friday and Saturday evenings other dances are scheduled, the first for graduate students and Faculty members and the second for all who have the free tickets.

WHILE THOSE on work relief in the city were striking last week for higher pay, the rest of the community, both town and gown, were wholeheartedly engaged in the annual drive to fill Ithaca's community chest for the coming year. Nearly $71,000 was set as the goal, and as always many Cornellians were taking active part, both on the Hill and downtown, in helping to raise the money. Headed by President Farrand as honorary chairman and Harry G. Stutz '07 as general chairman, it appears as we go to press that the community will again oversubscribe its quota.

ON THE CAMPUS, meanwhile, undergraduate teams representing the honorary societies, fraternities, sororities, residential, and independent groups were hard at work in the annual seven-day campaign to raise $1,000 as the University's contribution to the Red Cross roll-call. Half of the money raised goes to the Red Cross, and the rest to the Ithaca community chest and the Student Relief Fund.

FOOTBALL ITEM by R. B.: "On Saturday the Dartmouth football team arrived at ten o'clock in the morning and departed at six in the evening. But even in that brief period one sophomore member of the squad—shall we call him Mr. Red Jones?—seems to have circulated around pretty briskly or else used the telephone to good advantage. For in the afternoon six different, but uniformly attractive, young ladies came to the ticket office and said the same thing. Each asked for a ticket and said that Mr. Red Jones of the Dartmouth team had told her all she had to do was to go to the ticket office and mention his name and she would be given a ticket with his compliments. As they went away all of the young ladies mentioned Mr. Red Jones' name aplenty. All of which seems cruel, but young ladies should learn early in life not believe visiting football players with red hair."

AN INNOVATION at the Dartmouth game was a field telephone set from the top of the press box to the Dartmouth sidelines, by means of which members of the coaching staff with field glasses from their elevated perch advised the coach on the bench of Green players that would be better for a rest. Thus is explained, perhaps, the frequent shifts and replacements made by Coach Baile in his team.

LECTURES for the week included a Fireside Book Review by Dr. Herbert J. Muller '25 of H. E. Luccock's "Contemporary American Literature and Religion," in the Barnes Hall Library November 20 at 7:45 p.m.; "Reaction Velocity in Solution," by Professor Victor K. LaMer of Columbia before the Cornell section of the American Chemical Society in Baker Laboratory November 20 at 8:15 p.m.; on November 22 Professor Earle N. Burrows '07 illustrated with moving pictures the fabrication of a plate-girder bridge, in Room 2, West Sibley at 8:15 p.m. and Professor Loren C. Petry described "Collecting Fossil Plants" before an open meeting of the Agassiz Club in McGraw Hall at 8:00; Professor W. H. Timbie of Massachusetts Institute of Technology before a joint meeting of the Ithaca section and the Cornell branch of the A.I.E.E. in Room 10, Franklin Hall at 7:45 p.m. and Dr. Max Wertheimer of the New School for Social Research, "On the Psychology of Thinking" in the Main lecture room of Baker Laboratory at 8:15 p.m. November 23; and on November 24 a luncheon address in Barnes Hall at 1 by Rev. Dr. William E. Brooks on "The Soft Coal Industry in the United States."

BALLOTING on the Campus November 22 elected Elliott H. Hooper of Aurora, Ill. freshman representative on the Student Council, and the next day, because of a tie, Warren C. Smith of Garden City and Griswold Wilson, Jr., of Cleveland, O. were chosen to represent the sophomore class.

CONCERT SEASON opened November 22 with the farewell performance here in Willard Straight Hall of the popular London String Quartet, which will disband at the end of the year. Next week, on December 4, the Bailey Hall series of concerts will be inaugurated by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra with Ossip Gabrilowitsch conducting.

TELLURIDE became the interfraternity champions at touch football by defeating on November 22 an independent team, the All-Stars, composed largely of men who had taken part in Varsity basketball and baseball.

SIGMA PI won the interfraternity cross country meet, defeating Beta Psi by 12 points, with Delta Tau Delta third and Delta Chi fourth. Six fraternity teams of three men each took part, and five independents, of whom Louis J. Loughlin, of Sauquoit, first year man in the special course in agriculture, took first place.

ON FRIDAY Loughlin again distinguished himself, this time taking first place for the freshmen in the combined interclass-intercollege meet in a heavy rain and over the slippery 2½-mile course. Juniors won the interclass meet, freshmen beat the sophomores, and the College of Agriculture decisively defeated Arts and Sciences and Civil Engineering, the only other college teams which took part. Eighteen of the 20 starters came in at the finish.

FIVE FIRST AWARDS were made to cattle exhibited by the College of Agriculture at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto on November 23. Valors Geneva won the reserve senior championship for females in the Guernsey cattle class, and University animals also placed first in the classes for 3-year-old Holstein cows, 3- and 4-year-old Guernseys, and in the class for two Guernsey animals of either sex, progeny of one dam.

SERVICE ESTABLISHMENTS, amusement places and hotels of Ithaca last year reported $923,000 receipts to the Census Bureau, gave full-time employment to 235 persons and had total payrolls of $199,000. Our beauty parlors, barber shops, shoe shine stands, tailor shops, laundries and business service concerns led in importance, of course, but the ten amusement places in town got $309,000 of the money and used $39,000 to pay 48 full time employees.

SCARAB, honorary society of the College of Agriculture and Department of Hotel Administration, has elected three members of the Faculty and six undergraduates: Professors Clyde H. Myers, PhD '12, plant breeding; James M. Sherman, dairy industry; and James D. Pond '25, forestry; Donald E. Curtice '35 of Groton, Robert H. G. Grieg '36 of Port Washington, John R. McGraw '35 of Ithaca, James A. Mullane '35 of Lawrence, Mass., Thomas Ross, Jr. '35 of Doylestown, Pa., and William A. Stalker '35 of Shoreham, Vt.

BINGHAMTON WOMEN ELECT

The Cornell Women's Club of Binghamton has elected officers for the ensuing year: president, Genevieve Heffron '25; secretary, Mrs. Floyd L. Tewksbury (Emily L. Howell) '23; treasurer, Janet S. Jennings '30.

Representatives on various committees were appointed as follows: membership, Barbara L. Kirby '34; relations with secondary schools, Mary H. Patton '23; alumni scholarship, Doris Brown '31; vocational guidance, Mrs. Charles E. Duncan (Anna J. Phillips) '18.

HOLD ENGINEERS DAY

At the dinner of the Ithaca section of the American Society of Civil Engineers held in Willard Straight Hall on November 17, Professor Fred A. Barnes '97, president of the section, which includes the Binghamton and Elmira districts, introduced a number of Cornellians as speakers.

Professor S. C. Hollister, director of the School of Civil Engineering, welcomed the guests, and brief talks were given by George F. Unger '09, president of the Buffalo section; Glenn D. Holmes '95 of the Syracuse section and a former director of the Society; Carl C. Cooman '15, president of the Rochester section; and by Dean Dexter S. Kimball of the College of Engineering.

Professor William Malcolm of Queens College, Kingston, Ont.; C. Arthur Poole of Rochester; and H. S. Mattimore, engineer of tests for the Pennsylvania State Highway Department, also spoke.

AREOPAGUS APPEARS

Areopagus, the Cornell Journal of Opinion, for November, 1934, makes an editorial plea for an exact definition by the University authorities of exemptions from military drill. The leading article, "Minnesota's Cadet Army Demobilizes," by Arnold E. Sevareid, staff member of The Minnesota Daily, describes the campaign at Minnesota which culminated in the board of regents voting to eliminate the compulsory feature of "drill."

David Altman '33, now a senior in the Law School, asks, "Are Free Lectures Worth the Price?" His conclusion seems to be that they are not, but might be made so if student groups were to become articulate enough to suggest suitable speakers to the Faculty committee which selects speakers. He gives a brief history of the funds from which University lectures are financed, and says that this year the Goldwin Smith lecture funds amount to $1,000; the Jacob H. Schiff funds, $1,190; and the Messenger Foundation, $3,780.

In "Gentlemen Stay Sober" Professor Bristow Adams tells "How to be Happy Though Drinking." He describes the wines and liquors of most of the countries of the world, suggests some of their reasonable uses, and says of his own code: "My objection to being drunk is not a moral one, I am sure; it is purely selfish. For when a person is drunk he ceases to enjoy himself. He might better be at home asleep, doing and taking no harm."

George P. Torrence, Jr. '35, president of the Interfraternity Council, asks, "Are Fraternities Doomed at Cornell?" and concludes that they are not. The University authorities, he says, will some day exercise more executive control over the houses than at present, but the students will always be treated as adults and permitted freedom of action.

"Two Can Live. . . ." by One of Them tells how and why an undergraduate can do it in these days.

Elmer B. Isaak '35 of Mount Vernon is editor of Areopagus this year; Kathryn E. Lounsbury '35 of Brooktondale is managing editor; and John J. Senesi '36 of Brooklyn is business manager.

COMBINE SUMMER SCHOOLS

Beginning with the University's forty-fourth Summer Session next summer, the separate schools formerly held by the endowed colleges and the state colleges will be combined as a single enterprise. Dr. Loren C. Petry, professor of botany since 1925, has been appointed director.

Following the recommendation of the Faculty, the Board of Trustees has passed a resolution to the effect that "there shall be conducted in the University under the general supervision of the University Faculty a summer school to be designated The Cornell University Summer Session—University and State Summer Schools."

CORNELL CIVIL ENGINEER

In The Cornell Civil Engineer for November, 1934, Thorp D. Sawyer '14 gives "An Estimate of the Opportunities for Graduate Engineers South of the Rio Grande." It is based on his experience of fifteen years in South America. William J. Weakland, Jr. '36 of Charleston, W. Va., describes Camp Cornell, 1934, and various news items of the School are given.

The staff of the Civil Engineer this year includes Donald A. Booth '35 of Poughkeepsie, editor-in-chief; Frank Wolfsheimer '35 of Washington, D. C., managing editor; Egon F. Brummerstedt '35 of Greenwood Lake, alumni editor; Quentin W. Bernhard '35 of Buffalo, school editor; Sidney M. Walzer '35 of Hempstead, business manager; Russell E. Harris '35 of Locke, circulation manager; and John F. Harvey '35 of Washington, D. C., advertising manager.

A SCHOLARSHIP in the College of Agriculture, according to press reports, will be established in memory of the late Charles R. White, president of the New York State Farm Bureaus.

RUSSIA STUDIES US

The Medical College in New York and its Medical Center is one of the models for the proposed Medical City which the Soviet Government will erect next spring on a thousand-acre site in the Silver Forest on the Moscow River, according to the press.

A commission of the All-Union Institute of Experimental Medicine which recently studied the New York Hospital-Cornell University Medical Center, the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center, and the Rockefeller Institute in New York City is directing the drawing of the plans for Russian institution.

ROCHESTER MEETS DEC. 10

The annual meeting of the Cornell Club of Rochester will be held on December 10 at the University Club. At the business meeting the officers for the new year will be elected. In the social hour to follow Professor Herman Diederichs '97, director of the School of Mechanical Engineering and chairman of the committee on athletic control, will speak, Edwin H. (Hap) Hilborn '36 will perform on his piano accordion, and the Cornell Club Sextet, headed by Dr. Willis E. Bowen '01, will give a program.

A feature of the evening will be a reunion of the alumni who live in Rochester and vicinity and who have been out of college for thirty years or more. Prizes will be awarded to the oldest alumnus present and to the class which has the greatest number of its representatives. The dinner committee consists of J. Emmett O'Brien '15, chairman, James K. Albright '33, Robert Friedlich '21, and Robert Keller '30.

MEASURE GOLD ENERGY

The first complete analysis of the "energy levels" in the atoms of gold has been announced in The Physical Review by three physicists of the University. Dr. Floyd K. Richtmyer '04, Dr. Sidney W. Barnes, PhD '30, and Dr. Edward Ramberg '28 have published the results of their work in the long search of science for exact information about the energy allegedly locked up in atoms.

It appears that atomic energy does not fill an atom in the simple fashion of water in a tank. It is more like layers of wrappings.

For the atoms resemble onions in that they consist of many layers. Each layer represents an electron, or an electronic "mist," encircling the nucleus of the atom. Gold has 79 of these layers, that is 79 electrons outside its nucleus.

To analyze the energy in this gold structure, the University physicists gave the precious metal an extra charge of energy. Then they watched this energy as it was released and came out.

For energy they used X-rays. These rays have the advantage of acting like light on a photographic film. Thus the outflowing energy from the gold left a visible record of itself.

When the X-ray energy was absorbed in a gold atom, one of the 79 electrons was removed, and the atom was left at a higher energy level.

The energy was afterward released when other electrons from outer layers jumped to fill the place left vacant. This released energy recorded itself on photographic film as a dark, straight line. Technically it is a spectral line.

The widths of these lines were measured and from this the widths and shapes of the energy levels in the gold atom were determined.

STUDY FISH TUMORS

Experiments being carried on by Professor Hugh D. Reed '99 and Dr. Myron Gordon '25 of the Department of Zoology are reported to have proved that a certain malignant growth resembling the black tumor of humans is definitely hereditary with Mexican killifish.

Since 1931 they have been crossing infected fish with those unaffected, and keeping individual records which show that for nine or ten generations, at least, the growth appears in each generation. While they have not yet reached the stage of studying the cure, they are discovering valuable facts about the transmission of the disease in this fish.

CHRISTOPHER BEAN A HIT

"The Late Christopher Bean," presented for the first time by the Dramatic Club in the University Theatre, was a decided hit. An enthusiastic audience on November 24 applauded again and again as the final curtain came down on the last act of Sidney Howard's comedy, and frequently interrupted the play to show its enjoyment of the work of individual actors. The play will be repeated on Friday and Saturday, December 7 and 8.

E. Marjorie McAdoo '35 of Kew Gardens was convincing and appealing as Abby, and Walter D. Wood, Jr. '36 of Summit, N. J. was especially well cast and effective as Warren Creamer. As Dr. Hagggett, Charles J. Bruneel '36 of New York City was usually realistic and the whole cast played their parts with restraint and understanding. Marie J. Zobel '35 of New York City took the part of Susan; Eleanor M. Stager '35 of Norwich that of Ada, her sister; and Mary W. Lauman '37 of Ithaca was Mrs. Hagggett. Tallant was played by Robert G. Hyams, Jr. '35 of New York City; Rosen by Seymour A. Gross '35 of Belle Harbor, and Davenport by Robert B. Trivett '37 of East Orange, N. J. The play was produced under the direction of J. Colby Lewis, Grad., of Newark, N. J.

Concerning THE ALUMNI

'81 PhB—Dr. Theobald Smith, for fifty years a prominent physician, teacher, student, and scientist, on November 16 received the annual award for meritorious service in the fields of medicine and science of the New Jersey Health and Sanitary Association. The presentation of the award, a bronze plaque, was made by James E. Brooks president of the Association, at the organization's sixtieth annual dinner at Asbury Park. Dr. Smith was absent because of illness. Last November, in recognition of his research into diseases of animals and man, he received the Copley Medal of the British Royal Society. One of his most notable achievements was the discovery that Texas fever of cattle is caused by the bite of an infected tick. He also discovered the cause of bovine tuberculosis. He is director of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research at Princeton, N. J.

'87; '89 PhB; '91 LLB—The New York Times of November 11 carried a picture of the New York State Court of Appeals in which the Cornellians who appear are Chief Judge Cuthbert W. Pound, retiring at the end of the year after nearly forty years in the service of the State; Judges Leonard C. Crouch '89 and Irving G. Hubbs '91. At the testimonial dinner given to him and to his successor, Associate Judge Frederick E. Crane, by the Columbia Law School Alumni Association on November 16, Judge Pound made a stirring appeal for reforms of old abuses in the administration of justice and for a flexible interpretation of the Constitution in accord with new ideas and conditions. Other speakers were Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler and Dean Charles K. Burdick of the Law School.

'88 CE—General Mario G. Menocal, former president and head of the National Democratic party of Cuba, returned to Havana on November 12 by airplane from Miami, where he had been for several months in self-imposed exile.

'90 BL—Mrs. Willard W. Ellis, who is county chairman of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, attended the convention of the organization in Buffalo November 12-16 as delegate from the Ithaca Federation of Women's Organizations.

'92 BL; '01 AB—Among the speakers at the luncheon conference on "Radio for Children" of the Child Study Association at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York City on November 19 were John L. Elliott and Frederick Willis.

'94 LLB; '03 AB—Two of the division chairmen of the Citizen's Family Welfare Committee's campaign in New York City to raise two million dollars who have served five years in similar campaigns are Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation, and Floyd L. Carlisle of the Consolidated Gas Company. They are chairmen, respectively, of the divisions of commerce and industry and of public utilities.

'97—Capt. A. Graham Miles has been pronounced cured of the mental disability which led to his being declared incompetent by the courts, and has been declared mentally competent to manage his own affairs by Supreme Court Justice Edward J. McGoldrick. He has been an enthusiastic polo player and motor boat enthusiast.

'00 Sp—George W. Slocum of Milton, Pa. was elected treasurer of the National Co-operative Milk Producers' Federation at its annual convention in Syracuse on November 14. He is a former president of the Dairymen's League.

'01—Philip E. Rice of the Brown Swan Club, Schroon Lake, was re-elected president of the New York State Hotel Association at its forty-eighth annual convention in New York City the week of November 12.

'02 PhD—Dr. C. Stuart Gager, director of the Brooklyn Botanic Garden, spoke at a dinner given November 15 in the Garden's laboratory building commemorating twenty years service by ten members of the staff. Under Dr. Gager's directorship, the Brooklyn Botanic Garden attracts each year visitors numbering half the population of the Borough.

'02 BArch—R. H. Shreve discussed the present housing situation in New York and throughout the country before the building managers division of the Real Estate Board of New York at the Hotel Astor in New York City on November 20. He is a member of the firm of Shreve, Lamb & Harmon, designers of the Empire State, Bankers Trust, and many other buildings in New York and elsewhere.

'04—Edward A. Rice is proprietor of the Deerfield Craft Shop, South Deerfield, Mass. One of the products of the shops is the Nemo-Flex year book and diary.

'06 AB, '25 PhD—Margaret L. Stecker is in charge of a country-wide survey of the adequacy of relief supplied by or in cooperation with the Federal Emergency Relief Administration. Her address is 1734 New York Avenue, Washington, D. C.

'08 AB—Phillip J. Wickser is a member of the executive committee and chairman of the subcommittee on public measures affecting relief of the New York State Commission on Unemployment Relief, appointed by the Governor to develop a permanent basis for meeting the relief problem.

'09 AB—Walter L. Todd, president of the Todd Protectograph Company of Rochester, N. Y. was elected on November 13 a director of the Stromberg-Carlson Telephone Manufacturing Company.

'10 ME—Frank R. Oates is vice-president of the Technicolor Motion Picture Corporation, 1016 North Cole Avenue, Hollywood, Cal. He has three daughters, the eldest, Alexandra, a sophomore at Mills College, Oakland, Cal. His address is 1010 Selby Avenue, Westwood Hills, Los Angeles, Cal.

'12—Col. Ralph H. Isham on November 18 gave the first of a series of weekly radio talks over station WJZ, relating some of his interesting experiences in collecting rare manuscripts. His first lecture described his finding of the famous Boswell papers in Malahaide Castle, Scotland, where they were long hidden and recovered to astonish the literary world.

'13—At the end of his first year in active charge of the United States Treasury Department, Henry Morgenthau, Jr., and Mrs. Morgenthau, left Washington November 16 for a brief vacation at Sea Island, Ga. Appointed Secretary of the Treasury January 1, 1934, he became Under Secretary before this when it became apparent that Secretary Woodin's health would not permit him long to continue.

'17 BChem—Herbert R. Johnston, whose marriage in June was noted in our issue of November 22, has been appointed representative on the Athletic Council of the Cornell Alumni Corporation. He has two sons by his first marriage, Dick, 15, and Don, 10. He lives at 81 Tacoma Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y.

'19—S. Moore Kirby married on November 6 at Nice, Princess Leonida Bargration de Moukhranski, daughter of Prince George and Princess Helen of Georgia and second cousin of the Mdivanis. They arrived in this country November 14, but will make their home at Villa Montebello at Nice.

'20 CE—Walter A. H. Grantz is director and assistant to the general manager, F. C. Terminal Central de Buenos Aires and subsidiary companies. His address has been changed to Corrientes 4002, Buenos Aires, Argentina.

'25, '27 BS—Mrs. Anthony Hoadley (Elizabeth Little) still lives at 1170 Waverly Place, Schenectady, N. Y., and writes that her pet hobby is still social work. She has three children, Marie, 6; Dotty, 4; and Hugh, age one.

The Christmas Gift ★

35 Gifts

THESE are the days when that old bogey Christmas List rears his head, and the despairing cry "What can I give So-and-so?" echoes through the land. Don't let it get you down! Do the smart thing: give the CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS.

It's the perfect gift from Cornellian to Cornellian. A gift that is thirty-five gifts—thirty-five times during the coming year will its grateful recipient thank you. And he, or she, will have plenty to thank you for, because next year's NEWS is going to be bigger, better, brighter than ever.

Do it Now! Copy those Cornellian names from your Christmas list on the convenient coupon below—and then pat yourself on the back for a good deed done.

You may enclose your own Christmas card to be sent with the first issue, or we will select one.

★ The subscription price is $4.00 a year ($4.35 Canadian; $4.50 foreign). Unless check is enclosed, we will bill you January 1.
